

Kuhn Will Face Second Degree Murder Charge

Frank Pleckham, Beaten in Tavern Fight, Dies

INQUEST CALLED

Judge Ryan Signs New Warrant Against Nichols Man

A warrant charging Mike Kuhn, Nichols, with murder in the second degree was drawn today by Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, following the death at 7 o'clock yesterday morning of Frank Pleckham, 40, town of Black Creek, who was beaten up in Kuhn's tavern last Thursday night. Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan signed the warrant this afternoon.

Tentative plans were made to arraign Kuhn, who Saturday in municipal court pleaded not guilty of assault to do great bodily harm to Pleckham, on the murder charge this afternoon. Kuhn was freed Saturday on $2,000 bond.

Kuhn, it is said, attacked Pleckham about 8 o'clock Thursday night in the former's tavern, claiming the man molested Kuhn's wife. Pleckham was found lying unconscious on the floor of the tavern by Carl Krull, Nichols constable, who brought him to the county jail. Pleckham was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital the following morning. He died without regaining consciousness.

Sheriff John Lappen was told that Kuhn shook Pleckham several times after knocking him down. Constable Krull stated that Kuhn shook Pleckham after the constable had arrived and also struck the unconscious man after he was placed in a car to be brought to Appleton.

An inquest has been called by the district attorney, and members of the coroner's jury viewed the victim's body Sunday. Members of the jury are Nick Green, Charles Heumann, Royal Donack, Aaron Zebel, Joseph Drexler and John Gillespie.

Pleckham was born in Appleton Sept. 30, 1898. A farm laborer, he worked in recent years in the Bear Creek and Shiocton areas. He was a World War veteran.

Survivors are the widow, the step-father, James Flynn, Shiocton; one half-brother, Edward Flynn, Shiocton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Rev. F. C. Reuter in charge. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery, with Company D of the 127th infantry holding military service at the grave. The body will be at the funeral home from this evening to the hour of services.

Bank Probe Being Carried on, Heil Reveals in Speech

Study Shows Depositors Were 'Sold Down the River,' He Says

Waukesha.—Governor Julius P. Heil said yesterday that the new state securities division had been investigating sales of assets of about "two hundred" closed Wisconsin banks and had shown that depositors were "sold down the river."

Results of the investigation would be made known soon, Heil said. The governor spoke extemporaneously at cornerstone ceremonies for the new $20,000 Mill Valley school, which district he attended as a youth.

Heil said that "we are catching the crooks and we are going to punish them." Securities of the defunct banks, the governor claimed, were not liquidated "at the best possible price."

The governor also discussed the legislature, the national administration, vacations of state employees and buying for state penal institutions.

"The legislature," he said, "wouldn't let me monkey with the highways because they thought this might take the spoils system out of certain sections of the state. They're not interested in the welfare of the state. They're interested in their selfish interests."

Heil denounced "reciprocal trade relations with foreign countries whereby the Great White Father Turn to page 2 col. 7"

Medical Society Puts Hospital Plan Into Effect for Members

Chicago.—Dr. Nathan S. Davis, 3rd, president of the Chicago Medical society, announced today the adoption of "complete and unrestricted insurance plan for hospital and sanatorium care" for members of the society.

Dr. Davis said the society's plan was worked out after two years' study of the needs of medical men and patients. The Federal Life Insurance company, Chicago, has underwritten the plan at an annual advance premium of $10 per member.

The plan provides for private room service on a cash indemnity basis—allowing $8 a day for either hospital or sanatorium confinement for a period of 91 days for each claim plus $30 for such expenses as operating room, anesthesia and laboratory charges.

Members 60 years or older are limited to one claim a year, but no limit was placed on members under 60. Dr. Davis described this as an unusual provision, since most plans, he said, limit the number of days confinement in any one year to all members of the group.

254 Applications for Pardon Turned Down

Madison.—The state pardon board appointed by Governor Heil has denied 254 of the 275 applications considered, Chairman George E. Ballhorn, Milwaukee, announced today.

The governor, Ballhorn added, has granted seven absolute pardons, one conditional pardon, and eight commutations of sentence upon recommendations of the board. Five applications have been deferred.

3 Robbers Get Cash, Bonds in Farm Raid

Port Washington.—The farm home of Leo Weiler was invaded last night by three men who trussed up two farm hands and escaped with a safe containing $1,000 in cash and bonds valued at several thousand dollars. Sheriff Ben Funkel was informed. Weiler operates a tavern on Highway 41, near his farm home.

Silver Shirts' Head Accused Of 'Diverting' Firm's Funds 'To His Own Personal Uses'

Washington.—A Dies committee investigator charged William Dudley Pelley of the Silver Shirts today with having "diverted" assets of a stockholders' publishing house "to his own personal uses."

The investigator, Robert B. Barker, told the house inquiry into un-American activities he had spent the last three months investigating affairs of Pelley, of Asheville, N. C. He declared that the loss to creditors and preferred stockholders of Galahad Press as a result of what he called Pelley's "diversions" was between $35,000 and $40,000.

The Galahad Press, which Barker described as a religious publishing house, was operated at various times from New York, Washington and Asheville. It was declared bankrupt in North Carolina in 1934, the witness asserted.

Barker, saying his testimony was based on a search of bank accounts and court records, declared that Pelley, who was described as an anti-Semitic leader, diverted $100,000 of assets to his own uses and to the "Foundation for Christian Economics."

"And this diversion brought about the insolvency of the Galahad Press and loss to stockholders," Chairman Dies (D-Texas) asked.

"Yes, sir," the witness replied. Barker replied negatively when Riven Whitley, committee counsel, asked whether Pelley ever was prosecuted for diversion.

The witness went on to tell that Pelley was convicted in Asheville on charges of selling securities without having registered as a dealer and also with advertising the stock of Galahad Press when it was insolvent.

Barker said Pelley was fined $5,000 and assessed $1,719.50 in costs as a result of conviction. A five-year penitentiary sentence was suspended, the witness testified.

6 Persons Die Over Weekend In Accidents

Willard Bruns Drowns in Wolf River Near Shiocton

FALLS FROM BOAT

Eight Injured in Traffic Mishaps in Appleton Area

Willard Bruns, 25, route 2, Shiocton, drowned while fishing on a Wolf river bayou near Shiocton yesterday morning, one of six persons to lose their lives in accidents reported in Wisconsin over the weekend. Four others were killed in traffic accidents and one was gored to death by a bull.

Traffic accidents in Outagamie county and vicinity over the weekend brought injuries to eight persons.

Bruns was fishing with his nephew, Armond Lemke, 8, route 1, Appleton, about three miles south of Shiocton when he fell out of his boat 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Armond, who was unable to aid Bruns, managed to get the boat to shore and went 14 miles to the Andrew Peterson farm to call for help. He said Bruns had stood up in the boat and that he fell backwards into the water.

Searchers found his body about 2 o'clock in the afternoon in eight feet of water. Mearl McCully, Shiocton, caught the body with a grappling hook.

Bruns was born Oct. 12, 1913, in the town of Ellington and lived there his entire life.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bruns, route 2, Shiocton; one brother, Albert, Medina; and a sister, Mrs. Edwin Lemke, route 1, Appleton.

The funeral will be held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the residence and 2 o'clock at the Stephensville Lutheran church. Burial will be at the Stephensville Lutheran cemetery.

Mrs. Edgar Hein, 21, Chicago.
Duanne Karshbaum, 16, Buffalo county.

Hitler Gets British Reply to Demands; Note Reported Firm in Support of Poland

Green Appeals to Workers to Oppose Threatened Strife

Washington.—(P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, appealed today to workers throughout the world to "mobilize their moral influence and support in opposition to the threatened war in Europe."

In a letter to W. Schevenels of Paris, general secretary of the International Federation of Trade Unions, Green said it seemed "inconceivable that the German workers would give support to the war preparations now being made by their Nazi leaders."

"Working people in the United States," he added, "cannot help but believe that the masses of the workers of the German nation think as the workers do in other nations throughout the world."

"In the interest of peace and in order to prevent the slaughtering of working men and women in a cruel, ruthless war, I supplement the appeal made by the representatives of the British workers to the German working men and women to join with us in protesting against war and in opposition to the threat of war."

Daladier Writes Second Letter to Germany's Chief

Hopes to Leave Door Open for Peaceful Negotiations

Paris.—(P)—Premier Daladier drew up a second letter to Adolf Hitler today in an effort to dissuade the German fuhrer from going to war and to keep the way open for peaceful negotiations.

The French government simultaneously extended its preparedness for war with publication of a decree applying censorship to news and photographs.

Effective today, the decree said all printed publications, radio broadcasts and newsreels must be submitted to the newly-formed general information service for approval.

Export of all photographs and newsreels was forbidden except for those bearing a visa from the information service.

France was reaching the last stages in full preparedness with progressive mobilization of troops, requisition of transportation and partial evacuation of Paris.

Approximately 3,000,000 men were under arms in the French empire.

Persons close to Daladier said the second letter would undertake to persuade Hitler of the "error of his ways" in refusing to negotiate directly with Poland.

This was the latest move in a swift exchange of views between France and Germany, which began Friday with Hitler's outline of his aims to the French ambassador to Berlin, Robert Coulondre.

France replied Saturday with Daladier's first letter, urging Hitler to negotiate with Poland. Hitler's answer came Sunday in a letter of refusal, flown in haste from Berlin to Paris.

Former Congressman And Federal Reserve Board Member Dies

Chazy, N. Y.—(P)—Edmund Platt, 74, former New York congressman, newspaper man and federal revenue board member, died of heart disease yesterday at his sister's summer home on Lake Champlain near here.

Platt was born in Poughkeepsie and graduated from Harvard university in 1888. He taught at the old Riverview Military academy before going to Superior, Wis., as an editorial writer for the Evening Telegram.

In 1891, he began a 40-year association with the Poughkeepsie Eagle and from 1907 to 1930 was editor and half owner with his brother, Francis W. Platt.

Platt resigned from congress in 1920 to accept appointment to the federal reserve board, of which he later became first vice governor.

Fuehrer Favors Mussolini as Mediator In Dispute

TALKS WITH ENVOY

Duce Ready to Act if Convinced of Allies' Goodwill

Berlin.—(P)—Adolf Hitler expects to receive Sir Neville Henderson, the British ambassador, at 10 o'clock tonight (3 p. m. C.S.T.) to receive the reply of his majesty's government to Germany's proposals for a solution of the German-Polish war crisis.

Arrangements for the British ambassador's visit were made while Hitler was represented in well-informed circles as willing to have some friend like Premier Mussolini of Italy mediate Germany's dispute with Poland.

Sir Neville was flying from London after a series of three British cabinet meetings had completed the reply to Hitler's proposals.

In rejecting direct negotiations with Warsaw, the German chancellor disclosed that his demands on Poland not only included return of the free city of Danzig and Pomerania (Polish corridor) but also vaguely implied he would insist on other "adjustments" at the expense of Poland.

Against Direct Talks
In connection with suggestions that Premier Mussolini would be acceptable as a mediator, reliable sources said that Bernardo Attolico, Italian ambassador to Germany, was in frequent touch with Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Hitler indicated in a reply to Premier Daladier of France, made public early today, that he considered direct talks with Poland would be futile.

"I see no possibility for us on our part to exert influence in the direction of reasonableness upon Poland," the fuhrer declared.

He did not comment directly on Daladier's suggestion that the Turn to page 8 col. 7

Crisis Perturbs Share Traders

Wall Street Dealers Try to Adjust Prices to War Or Peace Prospects

New York.—(P)—Wartime control was extended in the European financial markets today, while traders in Wall street spent another uneasy day, trying to adjust prices to prospects of war or peace.

Outstanding in the day's developments were:

(1) Cessation of trading in American securities in London following the British restrictions on sale of foreign investments.

(2) A decline of $1 to $4 a share in leading stocks in Wall street and later recovery led by steel and motor shares, leaving final prices mixed.

(3) A further wide drop in the British pound sterling and wide swings in other foreign currencies.

(4) Mixed commodity movements, with wheat up $1 to 15 cents a bushel at the finish while cotton broke $1 to $1.20 a bale.

(5) A fall in United States and foreign government bonds, mostly eliminating the gains of late last week.

Dealings in most markets were in moderate volume while traders waited the outcome of the visit of England's ambassador to Hitler with the British reply to the Polish question.

Officials at Warsaw Believe Mediation Now Only Hope of Averting Conflict in Europe

Warsaw.—(P)—All possibilities for peaceful solution of Poland's differences with Germany, except one, appeared closed today.

The opinion grew in authoritative Polish circles that ways out of a European war following Adolf Hitler's refusal to negotiate directly with Poland had narrowed down to some form of mediation as suggested by President Roosevelt.

Direct negotiation was beyond consideration according to the German viewpoint. Polish foreign policy steadily has opposed arbitration, regarding it merely as a diplomatic gamble in which Poland has everything to lose and little to gain.

Polish spokesmen emphasized, however, Poland wants a peaceful solution of the controversy, but will insist on full recognition of her sovereignty.

Hitler's demand in his letter to French Premier Daladier for the return of Pomerania (the Polish corridor) as well as the free city of Danzig brought no immediate comment from the foreign office.

Meanwhile, Poland kept on the alert against any surprise moves from Germany by pushing her preparedness program.

It was estimated at least 1,000,000 men were under arms and ready for any emergency.

The Polish news agency reported clashes between German soldiers and Polish frontier guards during the week end on Poland's frontier with East Prussia and Slovakia, where the Germans have concentrated large forces.

One German cavalryman was reported to have been killed in an alleged raid by a German patrol on Polish territory near Dziedlowo, on the East Prussian border.

Eight highways linking the two countries, the agency reported, have been closed on the German side.

LATEST EUROPEAN BULLETINS

Paris.—(P)—The Rhine frontier between France and Germany was closed this morning at Strasbourg. The only persons permitted to cross the bridge from Strasbourg to Kehl were German residents of the French frontier zone and tourists returning to Germany.

Washington.—(P)—The maritime commission announced today that operators of ships of the United States lines and the American-Scandinavian line had decided to omit stops at German ports for the time being in order to expedite transportation of United States citizens home from English channel ports.

Berlin.—(P)—The Berlin Nachrichten published a report from Marienwerder today that Polish "terror bands" invaded German territory last night and the night before, laying waste to numerous farm houses in Pomerania and Silesia.

Crissol, C. Z.—(P)—Several German ships have failed to make scheduled calls here. It was considered possible that some of the boats had been recalled to Germany because of the European crisis. Incoming ships continued to report British cruisers patrolling the Caribbean.

Japanese Cabinet Is Being Reorganized as Result of German-Russian Agreement

Tokyo.—(P)—Emperor Hirohito today summoned General Nobuyuki Abe to the imperial palace where he will be commanded to form a new cabinet replacing that of Premier Baron Kichiro Hiranuma who resigned as a result of the German-Soviet non-aggression pact.

The summons to General Abe, former acting war minister, came shortly after Hiranuma's resignation was submitted while Japan kept her attention on soviet Russia for any major move against Manchoukuo or North China.

Hiranuma told the Japanese press Japan's diplomatic about face resulting from European events—principally the German-Soviet pact—necessitated the government's resignation.

Many Japanese obviously were worried as to whether Russia, taking advantage of her isolation from the present European crisis through the pact with Germany, might attempt to hamper Japan on the Asiatic continent.

Possible Soviet Moves
This might come, it was said, in an attempt to drive into Manchoukuo from the Outer Mongolian border—zone of sporadic hostilities more than three months—through Japanese-controlled Inner Mongolia into North China.

It was reasoned the U. S. S. R. has sufficient manpower to occupy Japan's Manchoukuo forces and possibly necessary reinforcement at the expense of Japanese strength in China.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to London, was expected to be named foreign minister to succeed Hachiro Arita, who bore the principal blame for Japan's diplomatic reversal.

Arita was a principal in negotiation of the anti-commun pact between Germany and Japan, signed Nov. 25, 1936, and which Italy joined later.

Hiranuma's regime failed to attain the average life of Japanese cabinets—18 months.

Gets Sentence on Robbery Charge

Former Drake Football Player Must Serve 5-Year Term

Minneapolis.—(P)—A former Drake university football player today was sentenced to five years in St. Cloud reformatory on his plea of guilty to a first degree robbery charge.

John Edward Dwyer, 25, Des Moines, Iowa, told the court he was disgusted because of inability to find work.

According to Assistant County Attorney Per Larson, Dwyer claimed he smoked a few narcotic cigarettes to work up courage for the holdup of an oil station last Wednesday, which netted him a tankful of gas and about $43 in cash.

Last Monday, Dwyer said, he was in Boone, Iowa, and suddenly became so depressed, he stole a car and drove to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to see his sister. Then he went to Rice Lake, Wis., where he picked up two girls, 18 and 20, and brought them to Minneapolis, where they wished to visit friends. After they left him, he committed the holdup, he said.

They rejoined him, and the three were picked up as they were starting back to Rice Lake. The girls spent a night in jail, but later were released.

Gunman Escapes With $1,200 From Theater

Racine.—(P)—A young gunman with a blackened left eye last night held up officials of the Venetian theater and escaped with $1,200 in receipts.

Harvey Kny, theater manager, his assistant, Everett Anderson, and William Bindel, head usher, told police the youth entered Kny's private office, forced Kny to open the safe, and ordered all three into a closet.

Queen Cuts Short Her Vacation in Scotland

London.—(P)—Queen Elizabeth decided today to cut short her summer vacation at Balmoral castle in Scotland and return to London tomorrow morning. The king returned Thursday. Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose will remain in Scotland indefinitely.

General Mobilization Begun in Netherlands

Amsterdam.—(P)—The Netherlands proclaimed the general mobilization of its army and navy today.

The Netherlands had about 130,000 men under arms prior to the mobilization orders. The first act of mobilization should add 114,000 men to the army or make about 244,000 all told.

The Royal Dutch navy, which includes 12 modern men-of-war, has been in readiness for some time. Reservists will be used to fill out skeleton crews on second-line ships.

Henderson Boards Plane to Speed Answer to Berlin

ARMIES READY

Practically All of Europe Puts Forces on War-Time Footing

Berlin.—(P)—Great Britain's ambassador to Germany, Sir Neville Henderson, landed at Tempelhof airport here at 8:32 p. m. (1:32 p. m. C.S.T.) tonight, bringing the British reply to Germany's demands upon Poland.

Henderson said he might fly back to London tomorrow.

He asked airport attendants to provide accommodations for the pilots of his twin-motored plane and his radio operator and asked that the machine be in readiness for a possible take-off.

German political circles thought the ambassador and the fuhrer would confer almost immediately.

Official photographers, always on hand to record momentous events in German history, were instructed to be at the chancellery at 10 o'clock p. m. (3 p. m. C.S.T.)

London—(P)—Britain dispatched a momentous note to Germany today replying to Adolf Hitler's unequivocal demands for Danzig and the Polish corridor, which have spurred heavily-armed Europe to further military preparations.

The note, completed after three cabinet sessions since Saturday, was believed to contain strong affirmation of Britain's support of Poland.

British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson left by plane to deliver it to Hitler.

Premier Daladier of France, who would stand by Poland, also was reported framing a new message to the German fuhrer simultaneously with the one Henderson was to deliver this afternoon.

Thus it appeared that despite the gulf between the views of Hitler and those of Britain and France there still was a hope that war might be averted.

Hitler was represented by well-informed Berlin circles as willing to have some friend like Premier Mussolini mediate the German-Polish dispute.

Duce Hopes for Peace

Premier Mussolini was said by reliable fascist sources in Rome to be continuing close contact with Hitler and the British government in the hope that a peaceful settlement could be reached.

The British government was expected to lay its "case before the world" by publishing Hitler's reportedly vague offer and Britain's reply, which was to be rushed to Berlin by Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany.

The reply was expected to tell Hitler the first requirement for any negotiation was the removal of threats of force.

An emergency session of the British parliament was called for tomorrow to hear a statement on the latest developments from Prime Minister Chamberlain and possibly brief statements from opposition leaders.

Meanwhile, virtually every country in Europe moved swiftly towards a wartime footing.

Censorship in France
France, with an estimated 3,000,000 under arms, imposed censorship of all telegrams, cables and photographs sent from Paris.

The Netherlands proclaimed the general mobilization of its army and navy.

France also suspended certain commercial air services.

Britain put into force sweeping defense regulations, closing military areas, restricting civil liberties, putting public utilities under new regulations and restricting codes and mails.

The British admiralty, which already had taken over control of shipping, told all British merchant vessels to stay out of the Mediterranean and Baltic seas.

More than 1,000,000 school children were evacuated from London in what was called a "rehearsal." It was regarded as significant, however, that they were required to take a change of clothes and gas masks.

The German passenger liner Europa, enroute homeward from the United States, suddenly omitted her customary calls at Cherbourg and Southampton. The United States liner Manhattan, due at Havre from New York Wednesday, will return at midnight of the same day.

Start Rationing Food
Food rationing became effective in Germany.

Young Republican Leaders Worried By Higher Taxes

Afraid 1940 Voters Won't Forget Any Increases Ordered Now

BY JOHN W. WINGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent
Sheboygan—Republicans of Wisconsin retained a surface appearance of harmony today after the Young Republican organization of the state in convention assembled here over the weekend betrayed some of the criticism of the Heil administration's budget and taxation policies which has been apparent in the party ranks recently.

Although a resolution of censure toward the state Republican administration's attempts to increase taxes to balance the state budget was throttled by administration help-mates on the convention floor, the introduction of the document and the debate on it were enough to show that there is a feeling among some party men that new taxes won't be a good campaign argument next year and that the Heil administration during its first eight months has not been a roaring success.

Normally the Young Republican conventions can hardly be characterized as representing the party. At the Sheboygan meeting, however, the convention hall was so liberally sprinkled with older heads, and with prominent members of the Heil administration's legislative leadership, that it took on the character of a regular party meeting.

Corridor talk and floor debate showed clearly that the party workers—including the youngsters who claimed proudly that they did yeoman's service in electing Heil last fall—are worried about the popular reaction to the heavy new taxes which have been under discussion in the capitol.

Defeat Administration
That feeling popped up in the closing hours of the rally with the introduction of a resolution, authored by Stanley Jaz of Milwaukee, one of the originators of the Young Republican movement and now a regional director, which praised the Heil regime for its liberal personal and relief policies, but warned flatly that unless the capitol Republicans radically reduce the cost of state government, and reduce taxes, they will not be truly representing the spirit and the wishes of the rank and file of Wisconsin Republicans.

The resolution was promptly pounced on by Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Appleton, assistant Republican floor leader in the state assembly, Assemblyman Anthony Gruska of Mosinee, regarded as a likely contender for house leadership next session, and Harlan Kelley of Sheboygan, a lawyer who recently got a job under Heil in the banking commission.

It would be premature, and unfair, to make such a declaration of policy so early in Heil's term, they warned.

Catlin defended the economy record of the administration, and declared that if "they (the supporters of the critical resolution) had made an adequate study of the legislature and the administration they would have found a remarkable display of drastic economy."

"We went as far as we could go," he challenged.

Gantner Makes Plea
Seemingly supporting the Republican critics of the administration was Assemblyman William J. Gantner of Kaukauna, who tried repeatedly to make speeches, although he is one of the men who is rarely heard from in the legislature.

Gantner complained that he had devised a plan of economy, but that both the legislature and Gov. Heil had turned it down with scant consideration or courtesy. He said that after the budget bill was passed, and legislators learned of the huge deficit they had to fill, he proposed to recall the budget act and reduce its appropriations 20 per cent. He said he also proposed the complete abolition of certain expensive state departments, but he did not name them.

Gantner was rather ruthlessly silenced, however, when Gruska raised the point of order that the Kaukauna representative is not a qualified "Young Republican." Gruska said "He is far past the age of a Young Republican."

Convention Chairman Maurice Coakley remarked that "is a moot question, because he looks younger every day."

Labor Shooting Brings Guards

Five Men Wounded in Kentucky Coal District Late Yesterday

Pineville, Ky.—(AP)—Wounding of five men, one seriously, brought out for nearly 40 national guardsmen to move today into Bell county, where two strike-affected coal mines have been the scene of numerous disorders the past week.

The men were shot late yesterday, County Attorney Walter B. Smith said, in a clash between pickets and four men who returned to work last week in one of the mines.

The troops assigned to this county by Brig. Gen. Elmer E. Carter were the last of approximately 1,250 guardsmen stationed in adjoining Harlan county since may as a result of labor troubles there.

The county attorney said four of the wounded men—Arnold Smith, Albert Ott, Walter Green and Delmer Goodin—were fired upon as they rode in an automobile along a road blocked by pickets near the Kentucky Ridge Coal company. They returned the fire, he said. Arnold Smith was wounded dangerously.

The fifth victim was identified by the county attorney as Richard Lawson, a deputy sheriff and a mine picket.

The Kentucky Ridge mine and the nearby Coleman Fuel company were shut down several months ago by a strike of employees protesting the companies' refusal to sign contracts with the United Mine Workers (C.I.O.).

They brought the plane, named the Nippon, down here at 11:02 a. m. (4:02 p. m. C.S.T.) yesterday at the end of a 2,400-mile flight across the north Pacific and Bering sea. The ship had taken off from Hokkaido Island in the Japanese group.

Plans were to take off again today for Whitehorse, weather permitting, then fly to Vancouver, B. C., Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles before turning east across the United States.

The Milwaukee group, led by Ray Lewandowski and Gene Posner, wished to name two Progressive as chairmen, a convention spokesman revealed. Other delegates, however, wanted at least one chairman to be a member of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation, which has its stronghold in Milwaukee.

Chairmen for eight of the state's congressional districts were proposed by the nominating committee, with the other two to be named by Milwaukee progressives. Voted down on their request to name the chairmen at the conference, the Milwaukeeans walked out.

The eight named were: Casimir Zioliowski, Racine, first district; Carl Thompson, Madison, second; John Cramer, Kenosha, third; Kenneth Anderson, Stevens Point, seventh; Dominic Olejnik, Green Bay, eighth; Spencer Yates, Glenwood City, ninth, and Glenn Brunner, Amery, Tenth.

Permanent officers will be elected at a state convention early in 1940.

At the same time it was reported that Edward J. Samp of Madison, former state chairman, and William J. Campbell of Oshkosh, veteran party man, are lining the Vandenberg boom in Wisconsin. No formal announcement of candidacies by prospective delegates have yet been announced, however.

DELEGATES WALK OUT

Employees' Income Up, U. S. Reveals

Department of Commerce Also Finds Investors' Income Drops

Washington—(AP)—Income received by American employees for the first seven months of the year increased five per cent over the corresponding 1938 period, the commerce department reported today, but investors' income declined.

The nation's total income from all sources for the seven months was $37,983,000,000, a gain of three per cent over the same period last year. President Roosevelt often has mentioned an $80,000,000 national income for a full year as a goal.

The commerce department's figures included direct relief payments and social security benefits of $990,000,000 as well as wages, salaries, dividends, interest, rents, royalties and the amounts owners withdraw from their businesses.

Except for social security and direct relief payments, the totals in each category for 1939 were lower than those for 1938 but higher than 1937.

Employees' compensation, including work relief wages, amounted to $25,250,000,000 in the first seven months of this year against $24,040,000,000 for the same period last year.

Dividends and interest in the 1939 period came $4,762,000,000 compared with $4,814,000,000 for the first seven months of 1938.

Much Interest in Races At Calumet County Fair

Chilton—Racing fever in Chilton and vicinity is reaching a new high as the Calumet county fair, Sept. 1, 2, 3, and 4, approaches. Charles Groeschel, superintendent of speed, reports that he will not have a complete list until Sept. 1 when the entries are closed.

The saddle races which are scheduled to take place Saturday, Sept. 2, are giving rise to the three-year-old question as to whether it is possible for the young men riders to beat Lucille Fiedler, of Chilton, who has held the crown for three consecutive years. Seven horses already have been entered, according to Oscar Schaub, and he expects at least ten in all before the lists are closed. This gives Miss Fiedler plenty of competition according to Mr. Schaub, even to a "dark horse" that has been entered without a rider. Three horses from out of the county will compete for saddle honors. Two of these are to be furnished by Joseph Gooser, veteran horse dealer of Brotherhood, and the third by the name of Corrigan hails from Clintonville and is owned and will be ridden by Francis O'Connor, who recently professed in a letter to Mr. Schaub that he has overcome his handicaps of last year and is ready to take the laurels away from Miss Fiedler.

The four harness races, two of which will take place Sunday, Sept. 3, and two on Monday, Sept. 4, undoubtedly will make some records, according to Mr. Groeschel. Chilton city boasts two favorites, Prince Jewel, owned by Jerome Fox and Frank Anderson, riderless to the present writing; and Don Carlisle, owned by Henry Fleming and driven by John Carney, who is also a veteran Chilton jockey.

Hitler-Stalin Deal Forces Japan Into a New Position

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—By straining our eyes, some easing of our own situation in the far east may be found in the backwash of the deal between Hitler and Stalin. Too much should not be made of it, but for small favors, in these times, we should be truly thankful.

As is now clear, Hitler sold out Japan. In return for a free hand in Poland, he gave Stalin a free hand in the far east. Thus Japan not only is isolated, but her most dangerous enemy, the one enemy who lies close enough to be an ever-present menace, is completely free to act.

Undoubtedly Japan will put up a bold front and continue her conquest of China, perhaps with greater haste since the future has new and unexpected terrors for her. Already there have come from Tokyo hints that Japan will let up on the British and bring the campaign of indignities to British subjects in China to an end. With this unquestionably will be abandoned any plans she may have had for turning the heat next upon Americans in the Orient.

She may want to continue driving the foreigner out of China and she may pursue that aim regardless of the severe blow which Hitler has dealt her. But there is a grain of intelligence left in the ruling clique in Japan, the campaign will be pursued only with greatest deference to American interests and sensibilities. It is inconceivable that in her present friendless situation, Japan will wish to make the breach with Great Britain and the United States wider.

Recently the United States gave notice of abrogation of the trade treaty with Japan, to prepare the way for imposition of any economic measures that the United States may later decide upon. The extent of such economic measures, if any, will be determined, as Secretary Hull said recently, by Japan's conduct during the next few months. Six months must follow the notice of abrogation before it becomes effective.

Practically, it is much easier for Japan to lose friendship and economic relations with Germany than with the United States. We buy from Japan 10 times as much as Germany does, and that trade, furthermore, is on a cash instead of a barter basis.

American Embargo Would Be Hard Blow to Japan
More important even is the danger to Japan from an American embargo, which polls and letters to senators and representatives show, would be highly popular with a majority of American citizens. Japan's economy is in shaky position and she is dependent upon imports for essential raw materials such as oil, scrap iron, rubber, cotton, wool, dyestuffs, minerals and some machinery, the bulk of which are controlled by Great Britain and the United States.

With Britain needing raw materials herself, we continue to be Japan's available source of supply. We are the number one supplier of Japan, with Britain second and Holland third. Last year these three nations supplied Japan with 85 per cent of her war supplies according to a study released recently by the Brookings Institution. Germany supplied less than 8 per cent of the total. We furnished the lion's share, 90 per cent of the scrap iron and steel, 65 per cent of the oil, 76 per cent of the aircraft and parts.

Must Be Careful to Guard Source of Supply
Therefore it would seem more necessary now than ever for Japan to conduct herself so as to safeguard this vital source of supply. If her agents in the United States are keeping her correctly informed, she knows that this source of supply will be imperiled if consideration is not given for American interests in the effort to establish a "new order in Asia."

Surely Stalin must have made his astounding deal with Hitler chiefly because through it he was made free to move in the far east by eliminating the latent threat of attack from Germany in the west. To assume that Stalin was willing to make the deal merely to escape being drawn into trouble in Europe does not show adequate incentive to justify him. The opportunity to act against Japan must have been the real attraction of the proposition.

If Japan sees the Soviet maneuver in that light, then she is bound, as a matter of survival, to end her policy of antagonizing the United States and Great Britain.

famous anti-comintern pact by the stated fierce hatred of communism but they had even been debating the idea of Japan joining the Berlin-Rome alliance.

"Splendid Isolation"
Now Nippon proposes to reth into "splendid isolation" for herself. And the reason for that is more easily understandable than is the reason for the pact. Japan wants time to find out just what that pact means, and who's who on her list of possible friends.

When news of the pact broke in Berlin, flabbergasted Japanese newspaper men sought an explanation of the extraordinary alchemy which had confounded science by making oil and water mix. German editors told their colleagues from the Far East:

One must differentiate strictly between ideologies and state treaties. One can fight another people on ideological grounds and yet have the best of state relations with them.

The Japanese blinked a couple of times and called it a day's work. In Tokyo, the authorities scraped up what they regarded as the ash of the anti-comintern pact, although authoritative sources said Japan would maintain "the spirit of the anti-comintern."

Seek More Data
For the rest they want more information about that Russo-German pact. They want to know what was passed between German foreign Minister von Ribbentrop and Russian Premier Molotov in Moscow before ink was applied to the document.

That is to say, the Japanese wish to learn if there were any useful ten pact. For instance, could there be any foundation for the wide spread speculation as to whether Germany had agreed to give Russia a free hand in the Orient in exchange for German freedom in Europe?

Hence the period of "splendid isolation." It's to give Japan a chance to check up.

And now we come to the state pact. The pact, of course, is to be closed to "any country wanting friendship." Who could that be?

Naturally many observers, including Japanese, have felt this development would tend to swing Japan back towards friendship with Britain and America. That may be true, but it isn't necessarily so.

Would Oust Britain
Japan is today ousting Britain from the latter's position of great influence and economic power in China. It is unlikely any development could alter that burning desire.

The Japanese now are bound to pause and consider whether they should cast their lot with Britain or with their old enemy, Russia—providing, of course, Russia would be willing to traffic with Japan.

An anti-aggression pact with Russia would, in theory at least, preclude war with the Soviet Union at a time when Japan is pretty fully engaged in her self-appointed task of conquering China—and ousting Britain.

Japan wants to get on with that job. She would develop with Russia, it is certainly well to complicate the Japanese program, to say the least.

Therefore, there are observers who believe Tokyo might even consider signing a pact with Russia, if the latter were inclined that way. Such a development naturally would add greatly to difficulties of Britain's position, particularly in view of the European situation.

Swimming Pool at Gardner Dam Is Dedicated Sunday

Boy Scouts Present Races And Diving Events After Ceremony

The Helen Sloane Memorial swimming pool at Gardner Dam camp officially was presented to the Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America in a dedication ceremony Sunday.

More than 500 parents and friends of scouting visited the camp and watched the program during which Carl Neidhold, Jr., accepted a plaque commemorating the event. Neidhold was chosen because he was instrumental in securing the donation for the pool from the late Mrs. Helen Sloane.

Karl Stansbury, Appleton, representing the Sloane estate, presented the plaque, which carried a picture of Neidhold in base relief. The plaque was set on a large limestone monument which will commemorate the event.

The 65 Boy Scouts, camping last week at Gardner Dam, participated in the ceremony which ended this year's camping season. C. A. Engberg, scout executive, was the master of ceremonies.

After the dedication a swimming demonstration, directed by Jack Bylow, aquatic instructor, was presented and included a medley relay, free style swim, back stroke race, breast stroke race, and a diving event.

The pool and the camp's riding horses were made available for visitors after the demonstration.

The pool, built by Roy McCarty Kaukauna, is about 240 feet long and 146 feet wide and is a pear-shaped bowl fed naturally from the Wolf river.

Back Pay or No School Is Teachers' Edict

Pottsville, Pa.—(AP)—Pupils were turned away today, the start of the fall term, at seven Porter township schools because teachers said there would be no classes until they received "back pay in full."

A thousand pupils, most of them taken to school by bus, were told by Supervising Principal E. A. Kelsor to return home and await word from him when classes would start.

The 36 teachers said they were owed three months back pay—and voted to stay away from classes until they were paid.

The school board said it could not pay until the district's largest taxpayer, the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, made tax payments. The coal firm, which normally pays 81 per cent of the township's tax receipts, is undergoing financial reorganization in federal court.

First Ward Drops 9 to 8 Decision to Picked Junior Team

Menasha—The All-Stars of the Junior Boys league scored a 9 to 8 victory over the First Ward Reds, league champions, Sunday morning at the Menasha baseball park before a crowd of several hundred persons. E. Konetzke, 10-year-old left-handed pitcher, starred for the All-Stars, who were chosen from the other four teams in the league. Konetzke pitched three innings and allowed not a hit. The All-Stars were ahead 5 to 0 when Konetzke finished his turn on the mound. J. Skalmowski pitched the next three innings and allowed three runs and five hits while Len Schipferling pitched the final three frames and allowed the champions five runs and three hits.

The All-Stars opened with three runs in the first inning on a walk to Kargas and hits by Weber, Wideman and Bayer plus an error. In the third Weber singled, H. Kozlowski doubled and both runners scored on wild pitches by Naleway. In the meantime, the First ward team failed to get a hit or run off E. Konetzke, who walked one man and struck out one.

Score in fifth, sixth. In the fifth the Stars counted one run when Gavinski was safe on an error by Swamp, went to second on a hit by Baenke, Kronschnabel clouted a triple to left field and scored on a hit by J. Skalmowski while the latter scored on a hit by Gavinski to add two more runs in the sixth.

N. Konetzke got the first hit for the champions in the fourth but runs scored. In the fifth Naleway was safe on a field's choice after Hoffman walked. A Jokubek walked and Swamp singled to fill the bases. Wilkinson singled to score Naleway but Jakubek was out at the plate on a nice throw by H. Konetzke from the outfield.

Two more hits allowed two runs for the First ward team along with a walk to Winarski and an error by Weber. Skalmowski struck out three, walked four and cut loose with two wild pitches in his turn on the mound.

Winarski of the Reds turned in the fielding gem of the game in the eighth when he raced from center field into deep left to catch a drive by V. Lingnolski. Naleway led the tying run for the Reds after the sixth inning. He allowed eight runs and 10 hits. Marx pitched the final three innings.

Rally Late in Game. After trailing 8 to 1, the Reds started to rally in the last half of the game. Two runs in the sixth made it 8 to 3 and Len Schipferling took the mound for the Stars for the final three innings.

He got by the seventh but in the eighth, errors by Kaminski and Drucks, a wild pitch and a base on balls mixed in with a hit by Swamp counted three more runs to make the score 8 to 6. The All-Stars gained the winning run in the ninth off Marx when Kaminski singled and scored on a sacrifice fly to center field by H. Kozlowski.

The first ward team came back in the ninth to count two runs and had the tying and winning runs on base when A. Jakubek struck out for the final out. Marx opened the inning with a hit and N. Konetzke got a base on balls, Winarski fouled out to Kaminski who made a nice catch. T. Sues, a mite of a lad no taller than the bat he swung, went in to pinch-hit and was walking, filling the bases.

Hoffman drove a hit into right field, scored two runs and move Sues over to third. Naleway grounded to the pitcher who threw home to trap Sues off third. Hoffman stole third and Naleway moved to second but Schipferling bled down to retire A. Jakubek on strikes.

HOW TO GET A CASH LOAN ON THE FIT YOUR BUDGET PLAN

Loans $20 to $300 without co-makers or endorsers • Repay in 2 to 20 convenient monthly installments as you choose • No bankable security required • No embarrassment or delay

IF YOU need cash, Household's loan plan is a simple, convenient way for you to get it. You borrow without co-makers or endorsers. You repay in 2 to 20 convenient monthly installments as best fits your budget. The faster you repay your loan, the less it costs you. Let's assume that you need $100 and that you can conveniently repay $9.77 a month. The table below shows that 12 installments of $9.77 each will repay your loan in full, including charges. Or suppose you can pay more each month. Six monthly payments of $18.17 repays $100. Or if you wish smaller monthly payments, you can repay as little as $6.43 per month for 20 months.

Simple to borrow
To get a Household Finance loan of $20 to $300 you merely tell us about your needs—and leave an application. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. No one has to sign the loan papers with you (married couples sign together). You get your loan promptly. Usually the money is ready for you the day after you apply.

Choose the payment that fits your budget
Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. See how you can make very small payments if you wish. Or you can pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four monthly installments costs only $6.44. And to get your Household loan you need no endorsers. You are spared the nuisance of asking others to act as co-makers.

In your own interest don't get a loan anywhere until you study Household's new plan. Note the convenience of Household's new payment schedules. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

READ THIS GUARANTEE
We guarantee the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, where payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of schedule.

Now Saratoga's Complaining Of Too Much Law Enforcement

Saratoga Springs—There is a dangerous undercurrent to civic indignation in Saratoga as the racing season approaches its last week and the gambling rooms of the racing track remain dark due to the sinister influence of the district attorney, a Republican by the name of Alfred Simon. This is the second successive summer that Mr. Simon has placed Saratoga under a scourge of strict law enforcement, and he still has one year to go, unless he can be removed from office for his flagrantly un-American conduct or enjoined by some combination of bad government leagues and societies.

The local public is aroused, because gambling is one of the principal industries of Saratoga, and never before has the law been enforced for one summer in succession, much less than two. In fact, it is doubtful that it ever was fully enforced for as long as one night in succession prior to the regrettable election of Mr. Simon, because in those days it was customary to blockade only one or two institutions at a time and rotate the law enforcement among them all.

Mr. Simon, however, has taken the law into his own hands, as you might say, and has been riding roughshod over the very well-springs of Saratoga's sacred heritage, for which the founding fathers shed their blood on the battlefields beyond the city a long time ago. He has raided some fine old institutions in the outskirts, and a detective has been suspended from the local force because somehow some gambling tools, including three wheels and a bird-cage, became lost or mislaid in transit from the premises where they were seized to the local police station.

In view of the fact that such tools usually became lost or mislaid in such circumstances, not only here but everywhere else in the United States, this procedure has come to have the force of legal custom. Therefore, it is the view of the local patriots that the sinister Mr. Simon has suddenly changed the rules of the game, which would be contrary to the American tradition of fair play.

Moreover, the citizens are particularly sensitive, because this is the 75th, or diamond, jubilee of the racing and gambling industries in Saratoga and they feel that he has gone out of his way to show contempt for some fine old 100 per cent American traditions, not the least of them being the sacred tradition that laws were made to be broken.

'Crime Must Go' Has Always Been the Slogan

If Mr. Simon had revealed his true character during his campaign he would have been crushed by a great uprising of the patriotic spirit. However, candidates for the office of district attorney always had used the slogan "Crime must go!" As far back as anyone can remember, and nobody had any idea of knowing that Mr. Simon, when elected, would introduce alien ideas under cover of a harmless motto.

Last year, after two weeks of Mr. Simon's tyranny, the taxicab drivers held a protest parade demanding that he be restrained from interfering with an industry which provided them and many other townsmen with milk for their innocent babies. Stickers were printed and pasted around town reading "We want action in August, not relief in December," and labels bearing some protest were attached to loaves of bread and other groceries.

Mr. Simon was accused of starving little children, and feeling ran so high that it was thought that surely he would respect the decent opinion of the community this year. But this year he has been more un-American than ever, and it is now

HEIL'S LEADERSHIP

Assemblyman Anthony Gruszka, a Republican sent by the people of Marathon county to help write laws at Madison, put his finger on one of the fundamental weaknesses of Governor Heil in doing his job at the capitol. Speaking of the criticism of the legislature and the Republican regime in general, Mr. Gruszka says that one of Heil's earliest mistakes was his failure to surround himself with some men of experience in public affairs, in politics, and more particularly in the state government.

Gruszka said something that has been said before. If you have a legislative representative who belongs to Mr. Heil's party, put the question to him during the weekend and he'll agree with the diagnosis.

When Mr. Heil left his business desk in Milwaukee some months ago to take over the management of the statehouse he seemingly assumed that his job was purely executive and administrative. His public speeches emphasized that conception of his office. He was going to straighten out what he saw as some pretty tangled business in Madison. He was a businessman, a good businessman, and proud of it. So there was nothing unnatural to him, in choosing a group of his old business cronies from the metropolis to help him.

William C. Maas, who spent most of his life in the fuel business, became his private secretary and after Aug. 1, 1939, a former employee of the Heil company, came to Madison to help the chief in his new office as another secretary. Charles McSweeney, a former manager of a country club, became the financial adviser.

There was then any recognition that the governor's biggest, most delicate, most responsible job during the first year of his term is dealing with the legislature.

The Heil office was staffed with men who had to spend three months getting acquainted with the law makers, not to mention putting across the governor's program.

Heil reiterated in every public speech that he wanted to be a good governor, the best Wisconsin ever had. A little study would have taught him that no governor in modern times has succeeded in establishing a record for constructive leadership and accomplishment by limiting himself rigidly to signing expenditure vouchers, dedicating schoolhouses, receiving foreign visitors, issuing proclamation on cheese days, or any of the other routine tasks of the executive.

The governor must have a program, a positive, defined program. What is more he must be able to get it through the legislature. To get it approved he must be in constant and friendly contact with the legislative leadership. He must be aggressive. By custom and law, the governor has a direct and important role in the legislative process. But it is essentially a political job. There is more to it than giving orders. Thus the governor who has no political experience of his own must have politically sagacious advisors. He must have men who can bargain, compromise, cajole, impress, fraternize with the members of the senate and assembly, who are politicians.

The present governor has no such assistants. The legislature is rapidly destroying the little of his program that was put into definite shape. They have spurned his taxation policies, have defeated some of his major reorganization bills, nullified some of his economy pledges, and generally treated him and his representatives with truculence.

The governor is the head of the party administration. To him do the people look for courageous, skillful, unflinching leadership. To him goes the credit for the successes, and the quick blame for the failures.

HOW TO WIND UP A LETTER

For budding youth in the gay 90's ambitious parents bought a heavy tome that taught culture including the difficult task of writing letters properly. And little Dave or Martha with wondering eyes looked upon the swell language and marvelled that anyone could be so beautifully educated as to write with such ease and grace.

But the book of the future that instructs in the methods of a dignified correspondence can hardly go to press without taking into account a certain letter written to the President's wife by a man who is as black as anthracite and whose devoted followers call him Father Divine. This man concluded his letter discussing the subject of buying more land near the Roosevelt home as follows:

"... This leaves me well, healthy, joyful, peaceful, lively, loving, successful, prosperous and happy, in spirit, body and mind and in every organ, muscle, sinew, joint, limb, vein and bone, and in every atom, fiber and cell of my bodily form."

Let someone translate that into French and submit it to France's smoothest diplomat as a standard for her future communications with the Reich. If that doesn't force a smile upon the gruff and tragic sternness of Berlin then humor is altogether dead across the Rhine.

WHOSE IS THE FAULT FOR WAR?

Mr. Chamberlain is a valiant statesman who has inherited problems that hate and greed created 20 years ago.

He is the head of a democratic nation in which the same hate and greed are carefully nourished by certain parties for political purposes.

Looking back 20 years ago we find many voices in America, some in England, very few in France, warning that the abomination known as the Treaty of Versailles would produce exactly what it has produced.

Democracies have within them, we believe, the only means of ridding humanity of its greatest curse, war. But to arrive at that end democracies must first be just. And they have difficulties in this regard because people have a difficult time being just when justice demands unselfishness.

What wouldn't the world give today to be able to write those treaties of peace again?

Suppose it had said to Berlin, already a republic: keep your navy and your manhood, keep your colonies and your pride, keep your land and your memories, for the peace that concludes the final war must be one of justice.

Suppose it had treated Austria-Hungary, another republic, in the same manner instead of sitting on its chest and actually choking it to death.

Of one thing we could be pretty sure. The central European nations would have remained republics. And republics though they have their faults, are not in the habit of driving their people to war.

The injustice of 20 years ago made Hitler and armed the Reich. Broken promises by both France and Britain inflamed the Germans to the point of destroying their democratic constitution.

It is fairly accurate to say there will be no war unless Hitler wills it but if you want precision one might say there would be no war today had the democracies kept their promises and restrained themselves from so stripping and humiliating a great race of people that it had, according to the usual rules of human conduct, little alternative but to follow the path to the battlefield.

THE LITTLE FELLOW WITH A CUP ON THE CORNER

Portland, Oregon, is given a population of over 300,000 people. It is located in a most fertile country rich in agriculture and fisheries.

But under the New Deal it, too, has found it impossible to support two evening newspapers. And the Little Fellow, the independent newspaper that always said it was progressive, has sadly locked the door, junked its plant, and tumbled out several hundred more skilled employees to fend for themselves. The Directory of Newspapers give the dead journal a circulation of about 67,000 copies daily. It must have taken a great organization to keep such a newspaper spinning along.

But the managers were right to show exactly the knife thrusts that killed them. Higher taxes, higher wages, higher cost of everything, but stagnant business conditions that could produce no higher income is the combination that made for death.

It is the same combination that is killing off Little Fellows everywhere. It is the New Deal in operation. It is the fact as distinguished from the theory and the promise.

It would be much better for the country, too, if all the Little Fellows who are collapsing or knuckling in, and thus making the Big Fellow bigger and stronger than ever, would only adopt the policy of newspapers which scream out shrilly in their death struggles.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

MARY-JANE AND JIM

The summer winds a weary way
For Mary-Jane and Jim.
The hours are long when sad thoughts throng
And lonely eyes are dim.
The mists are blue upon the hills:
The shadows woe the grass.
The buds unfold, the blooms grow old
As weeks of summer pass.

There are too many lonesome hours
For Jim and Mary-Jane.
The miles are wide when they divide
Two hearts that sigh in vain.
For the remembered comradeship,
The happy laughter done,
And every phase of bygone days
They treasure one by one.

But in the overtune Life plays
For Mary-Jane and Jim.
The minor chords bring their awards.
And soon the nuptial hymn
Will sound within a quiet church,
Joy will not be denied.
Two standing there with just one prayer:
To journey side by side!

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Promenade Pickups: Riding over the city in a commercial blimp day after day, the pilot's view is a constant panorama. Viewed from the air the city is much like a large scale model. It was somewhat of a jolt, therefore, to have the pilot turn the other day as we cruised high over Manhattan, and say: "You know, there's just one thing I'm dying to see at the Fair. It's the Perisphere's diorama!"

That young man who is cavalcading Gloria Swanson around the night spots is her son... At the Rainbow Room, where customers are expected to dress, Douglas Corrigan, wrong way flyer, steps in to have a look, and even the fact that he is a "name" couldn't convince the headwaiter that he should be given the run of the place in his usual slacks and leather jacket.

Many people go to the restaurants atop the RCA building for dinner to watch the sunset over the Jersey landscape—one of the beautiful sights the town affords... There is a movement under way to bring Aimee Semple McPherson to the Fair to preach, the idea being that both the Soul and the Fair would benefit, and another west coast lady who has an abundance of money is reported to be giving serious consideration to bringing her talents to Flushing Meadows next year, thereby (she believes) providing the necessary Oomph to make the Exposition a resounding success... Carlyle Blackwell, one of the silent screen's early and handsome young men, hurries through the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria, enthusiastic over his new career as a promotional man for a large distiller.

Story-of-the-Week (As far as I'm concerned): A salesman on the road kept wiring into New York headquarters for additional expense money. Week after week this went on, until the company had sent him $800, yet not a single order was received from him. Finally he returned to New York, set down at a typewriter and began typing frantically. The boss entered and said: "You were gone six weeks. Did you get any orders?" The salesman shook his head, and kept on typing. The boss said: "I send you $800, you get no orders, and here you are sitting at a typewriter. To whom are you writing?" "I am writing a letter to Mr. Hitler," the salesman replied. "And what are you writing to Mr. Hitler for?" the boss demanded. The salesman replied: "New territory he wants? Cleveland he can have!"

I haven't seen a small boy whittling in years. Once upon a time it was a boyish fashion to carve initials in tree trunks. One seldom sees such handiwork now. Chalk and crayons are the tools which present day adolescents use to express themselves. The tenor of their literary efforts is about the same. "Joe Loves Lucy" and "Bill Martin is a Bum" are the sort of things you see, and they are scribbled on subway walls, billboards and sidewalks. The most frequently scribbled sentence, however, and one which can be seen in almost any part of New York is: "Father Divine Is God."

On the New Jersey side of the Hudson are several family furnished night clubs whose prosperity is in the back-room-gambling. There has never been any question about the honesty of the games—roulette and dice, mostly—yet any regular patron knows that over a year's play he will lose. The operator of one of the largest such clubs told me that regular patrons are catalogued as "$3,000-a-year," "$10,000-a-year" men, etc., meaning that the house can count upon certain patrons for approximately the same sum year after year.

Strangely, these ornate gambling places do not like to have New Jersey residents for patrons. In some cases New Jersey people are barred. New Jerseyites, if they suffered heavy losses, are in a position to howl so loudly that officials must do something about it, whereas New Yorkers who lose are not very impressive with their yelps, because they don't vote or pay taxes in Jersey.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, August 31, 1914

Five Neenah people escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding turned over in the ditch just this side of Mud creek bridge.

A new machine, a new Carter car, skidded off the road and turned upright at the bottom of the embankment. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sorenson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hooper, and Mrs. Oscar Wolf.

L. G. Bleick and H. B. Fischer drove up from Racine in the new Mitchell roadster, recently purchased by the Fischer brothers. The car was one of the new 1915 models with wire spoked wheels and had a 60-horsepower engine. Dragged for a block along Union street pavement by a runaway horse, Julius Zerth, delivery boy for the A. J. Shannon grocery, was painfully injured during the noon hour.

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, August 28, 1929

Fire of unknown origin swept through the finishing rooms on the first and second floors of No. 2 mill of the Fox River Paper company the evening. Paper stock and finishing machinery were damaged. The fire department stopped the blaze after 45 minutes' work.

By a vote of the town board, the town of Grand Chute became the first in the county to adopt the new county zoning ordinance. The first joint rally of the Associated Luther Leagues of Wisconsin of the Ohio synod was held Sunday at Pierce park. A picnic dinner was served at noon under the direction of Rudolph Gauerke and a committee composed of Miss Helen Block, Miss Verona Kipstine, John Fentz, and Martin Gauerke.

DELICATE LINES

Because the distinctions of the fair labor standard act are so broad, one of the duties of the wage-hour administrator is the delicate task of drawing the line between exempt and non-exempt border line occupations. The worker in the industries processing agricultural products, for example, was neither fish, nor fowl, nor good red meat until Mr. Andrews made up his mind.

Mr. Andrews' recently published summary of decisions affecting these workers makes interesting reading. Persons engaged in the processing of fresh fruits are exempt from the wage and hour provisions of the act; those engaged in the processing of nuts are not. Nuts may be fruit, says Mr. Andrews' summary, but "they are not fresh fruits, even when newly picked." Workers who pack nice red tomatoes in crates are exempt; workers who put them in cans are not. Those who grow "field crops" are exempt; those who grow trees (forestry) are not. Persons employed in raising wood-bearing animals are exempt; persons engaged in raising fish-bearing animals are not.

As you write a fable about the man who blew upon his portage to cool it and upon his innings to warm them. Solomon solved a famous case in equity by methods peculiarly his own. But the world of the Greek fabulist and the biblical king was a simple one, after all.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The government has spent millions in designing battle-ships, roads, low cost houses, kitchen aprons, drug-store glassed-in gardens, and suspension bridges, but not one dime has it laid out in fashioning a comfortable suit of clothes for a man.

For seven cents, or maybe it is 13, you can get a pamphlet on window gardening. Experts will help you fight the Japanese beetle. Consular agents will sweat through a steaming summer in Java enduring malaria and chigger bites to help you sell an iceless refrigerator or a new brand of soda-water.

But no government finger will be raised to work out a new scheme for clothes that, at the end of a hot day, won't hang on you like a potato sack.

We went into this thing with moderate thoroughness, considering the temperature. In fact, the temperature drove us to it. It seems to us that of all the services the government is so anxious to render it should be most eager to provide an improved dress for men, of which there are an awful lot.

He Seeks Assistance
We toured the Department of Agriculture almost from cellar to garret. That department above all others is charged with the task of looking out for man's most elemental needs.

They can tell you how to bake a blueberry pie, roast a duck, mix a cooling summer drink (non-intoxicating), or prepare a school lunch for a growing boy.

Down in the basement regions the department's architects and philosophers have drawn many plans for low-cost homes that should make farm life a thing of beauty.

So food and shelter they have attended to. A huge wing of the department is given over to textiles. A person would think that there, if any place, a little work could be done in designing a non-binding air-cooled shirt. But no.

They tell women how to make simple household garments, how to rig up a low-cost outfit for the youngsters. They pioneered in designing and popularizing the sun suit for tiny tots. They publish illustrated pamphlets telling women how to spot fraud in a piece of textile and how to detect slipshod tailoring in a store coat. But not one room is given over to fashioning a pair of pants that won't need pressing every 48 hours.

He Gets Sympathy
There was sympathy for the idea of doing something for mankind. A young woman, head of a division, expressed her sympathy for the idea, however, that there never had been an appropriation from Congress for it.

"Did anybody ever ask for one?" we asked. "I don't remember, if they ever did," she replied. She was cool and comfortable while we talked. She wore a striped cotton shirt open at the throat, a skirt and doubtless a light slip and other hidden essentials. That was all—except, of course, shoes and stockings.

Opposite her we sat writing in three layers of cotton, including coat, shirt and undershirt, two of them tight woven. Our shirt was tightly buttoned around the throat to stop ventilation. Besides, we had on tightly-woven trousers and some more gear underneath.

Why the dickens doesn't somebody do something about it? We did have one advantage. The young lady began fumbling around in a purse and then in a drawer to find a match. We had pockets.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

It sure would be fine if we could get away from war news and back to a calm consideration of the hay fever. Sophie Tucker and Lepke situations, but the chances are slim.

Ordinarily, Lepke would be big news, but a New York racketeer becomes a minor figure when the European ones get into action. I understand, by the way, that Lepke's surrender to Gen. MacArthur is a relief to Tom Dewey was part of another appeasement program.

Over in Europe, it looks to me as if war had been just pushed back a little, but I'd rather see the biggies talking than fighting, at that. I see the Japanese seniors have taken to slapping Germans. This is significant. You can follow the whole temper of the Japanese by the shifts in their slapping program. Hitler and Mussolini are having a lot of long distance phone calls, and if there is a war and it's won by the Axis, the allies will get a terrific telephone bill from those two boys.

It looks like a big day ahead. I don't see why a man can't qualify as a Veteran of Foreign Wars just by listening to all the radio broadcasts.

P. S. Russia didn't sign any surprise treaty with anybody over the week-end. That's something to be grateful for.

Runs Against His Boss And Is Fired From Job

Hopkinsville, Ky.,—Henry T. Hurt ran against his boss in the recent Kentucky primary and won—but lost his job.

Shortly after the final tabulation showed Hurt, deputy circuit court clerk, had defeated the incumbent, J. T. Walker, for the Democratic nomination. Hurt received notice his services no longer were desired.

BREATHING SPELL

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Senator Fisher of Waupaca is the author of a resolution which if it becomes law will make a fundamental change in the state political system by providing for a single, four year term for the governor of the state and the other constitutional officers, and to make the terms of his appointees to state boards and commissions coincide with his own term as executive.

Wyngaard

In Wisconsin the public has grown so accustomed to electing its state officers biennially that it is rarely realized that there is a general trend in other states toward having the governor's appointees serve during his own term, subject to dismissal or retention by his successor, is Fisher's own idea of improving the administration of state government.

The senator from Waupaca feels with many others that the period of "reorganization" programs in the capitol are simply bluffs to disguise a new administration's efforts to shake the plum tree. In some of the Republican reorganization bills there was scarcely an attempt made to conceal the fact that the administration was motivated almost as much by a desire to get rid of Progressive hold-overs as by a wish to make the departments more efficient.

In the first state constitutions, the terms of most governors were for only one year, and none was permitted a term of more than two years. No limits were placed on reeligibility. At present, most states have two year terms, some are four. And one state, New Jersey, has a three year term system.

However, the current tendency and weight of opinion point to the four year term.

Here are some of the arguments for such a change, as summarized by those who have studied the proposal:

1. It permits a more satisfactory development of administrative policies and tends to give a state more efficient government than is possible under a two year-term. (Here it may be pointed out that at least one of the constitutional officers of the state who were elected 10 months ago are already spending several days a week campaigning for reelection, and perforce leaving their duties to their subordinates).
2. It makes possible greater and more consistent economy in administration; it reduces the inevitable extravagance and waste connected with more frequent changes. (Here it may be pointed out also that the present Heil budget was put together in a hurry, because of the legal requirements, and that the new administration, unless it is reelected, will not have an opportunity to formulate a coordinated fiscal policy out of its own experience).
3. It harmonizes with the principle of the short ballot, providing as it does for a reduction and simplification of the duty of the voter.

REELIGIBILITY

The Fisher proposal for a one term limitation, however, raises an entirely new problem. Curiously, the third-term tradition of the White House has never affected governorships. Wisconsin, for example, has had a number of governors who served three two year terms, and one executive served

CALL OFF YOUR DOG

When I was a smart young doctor, at least I thought so, a hurry call came one day from a leading citizen. Was my face purple when I arrived at the house, to learn that poor Pete had broken his leg and would I be so kind as to put a cast on it or something. Pete, you see, was a terrier. Well, sir, nothing burst. Indeed I did apply a cast, and Pete expressed his appreciation for it. I was astonished, for that was long before the advent of Tony the Irish Terror, and I had no intimate knowledge of the ways of dogs. It rather irked me, however, when I saw Pete, a few days later, running around on three legs, sans the hind leg. On inquiry I learned that Pete found the thing burdensome to drag about so he had discarded it and was relying on unguiled nature to heal his fracture. Nature healed it, all right, in her usual bungling fashion, but Pete never complained about the deformity—he had three good legs, so what?

Article here July 5 "Not All Mad Dogs Have Rabies" told how Dr. John W. Patton, East Lansing, Michigan, veterinary, experimentally produced a kind of "madness" in dogs by feeding them on a diet adequate in all other respects but lacking vitamin B-1—thiamin; then brought the "racing, howling maniacs, frothing at the mouth, screaming piteously, or in appalling convulsions" back to normal by giving them an injection of thiamin. Dr. Patton expressed the belief that many thousands of dogs are killed because people are frightened into believing the dogs have rabies when in fact the dogs suffer only from these fits, due to lack of vitamin B-1 in their food.

The item was published here because I, too, believe the everyday diagnosis of "rabies," whether it is an off-hand opinion of doctor, veterinary or health officer, is a bad guess. I am speaking now of rabies in animals. As for rabies in man, I gravely doubt that it ever happens. But I advise you to be guided by your own doctor's advice in reference to rabies, and not by the advice of any politician who happens to be a health officer or a dog catcher.

E. L. M. was inspired by the item to report her experience in giving her 14-year-old dog vitamins B-1, G, D together with one-fourth grain of thyroid every alternate day. Anyway, after eight weeks of this treatment the dog got back into splendid condition.

Well, what of it? This is a health column—for people. One dog doesn't make a dogma. Please do not tell me any dog stories. I bring back the picture I want to forget—that last reproachful look and doubtful wag Tony gave me when I gave him to the executioner, after poor old Tony had grown too feeble to carry on. Let's not talk about dogs any more.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
What Weak Nails Indicate
Do weak nails ever indicate a need for iron in the system? (Marjorie E. D.)
Answer—More likely ridged, speckled or spooned nails, nails too thin and fragile, indicate deficiency of calcium and sulphur. But such atrophy or weakness of the nails is seven years in all. In other states governors have served as many as six terms.

When the hearing on the Fisher proposal is held, that feature will probably win strong objections. Wisconsin has always held to the idea that its people ought to be able to decide how long they want to keep the same governor. There seems to be no reason why they should not retain the services of an executive of whom they approve as long as they want.

Strong Milk Pool, Can Boost Prices, Farmers are Told

Walter Singler, Harry Jack Make Pleas For Cooperation

Pleas for an active interest and cooperation to build up the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool as a means of securing better milk prices were made at a meeting of some 2,000 farmers at Black Creek yesterday afternoon by speakers, among whom was Walter Singler, militant and colorful leader of the milk pool a few years ago and who was the leader of the well-remembered Wisconsin milk strikes.

The mass meeting was sponsored by the milk pool and farmers and members from all sections of the state were in attendance. There was talk among members of getting Singler to return to the milk pool to aid in building up its membership and giving it new life.

An indication that this might come about was given in Singler's statement that he would willingly give his time to address any meeting and also the announcement by Harry Jack, president of the pool, that he was glad to carry on until a successor is named.

Jack stated that his action was prompted by a division of forces in the milk pool and that he thought the rift might be repaired if he resigned. He hit at rumors the milk pool was broke and declared that it is "more economically sound than ever in its history."

Explain Resignation
Singler reviewed the history of the milk pool and gave his explanation of his resignation as its president about two years ago. He said that to keep alive the interest of the membership the pool went into marketing and the gains made in the Chicago market were provided funds for a fee and commissions that ran into thousands of dollars, he said.

When a plant in Dodge county got into financial difficulty the investor stated he would provide funds to tide it over the period on a basis that Singler refused to accept, he said. As a result he was forced to resign when a majority of the board of directors sided with the financial interests, he explained.

"While president of the milk pool, I accepted pay only from the members and worked only for them," he declared.

Singler called attention to the milk strike in New York state which he said brought 11 million more dollars to some 5,000 farmers. He said that the gains made in the New York strike would be lost within a year unless farmers in this area acted to bring up their own milk prices.

Farmers Indifferent
"There is only one thing wrong with the farmers," he said, "and that is their own indifference to responsibilities. The storekeeper can get a 4 per cent profit, while the farmer who raised them probably still is waiting for his money."

"With proper cooperation Wisconsin farmers could put a fair trades code on the farm, but they must build up their organization to justify their demands."

Harry Jack also made a plea for cooperation and determination on the part of the farmers to boost milk prices. He denied a rumor which, he said, was circulated by a former attorney for the pool that the milk pool had lost its independence and was in the control of capitalistic interests because of borrowed funds.

He said that the members and not the officers are important in the pool, that policies are decided during the year are formed by the delegates elected by the members to the state conventions.

1,500 Persons Trade in Farm Produce at Record 'Pig' Fair

More than 1,500 people bought and sold farm produce Saturday morning at Appleton's biggest pig fair this year. The fair, about twice as large as usual, according to traders, covered the entire Washington street fair ground.

Farmers from all over the state came to vend their wares at the August fair, while buyers traveled from as far as Illinois to buy dogs, pigs, and poultry. With squealing young pigs as the predominating stock, there was an unusual variety of merchandise at the fair including pigeons, geese, rabbits, bantam fighting chickens, goats, and one lone horse.

Veteran tradesmen recalling the days when horses and wagons crowded the area now filled with dusty trucks, claimed that a horse was quite a novelty at the fair these days. They said the horse for sale was the first of its kind for a mighty long time.

Pig buyers purchase as many as 150 young pigs at the fair. They carry these off in trucks to sell for a profit at other fairs throughout Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa.

Buns in Family
"It just runs in the family," explained Mrs. Elmer Ducker, wife of a pig buyer from Whitewater, whose family has been buying stock in Wisconsin for generations.

Wriggling puppies of all varieties are displayed on packing boxes, by their owners, chiefly small boys. Many of these dogs are bought by pet dealers and sold to people in large cities.

Many townspeople stop at the fair to pick up bargains in vegetables and fruit, pets for their children, or a chicken for Sunday dinner.

Appleton's pig fair, an institution of over 40 years' standing, is held on the last Saturday of every month.

Both Parties in Missouri Hoping To Win in 1940

Senator Clark and Governor Stark Seen as Presidential Possibilities

(Editors: This is the first of a series of stories surveying 1940 convention possibilities in middle western states which will be a potent factor in determining who will be nominated and elected in the next presidential campaign.)

BY W. E. RAGSDALE
Jefferson City, Mo.—(P)—Missouri, knee deep in the wreckage of the Pendergast machine, presents a 1940 picture of conflicting Democratic ambitions and rising Republican hopes.

The two men who will have the most influence on the make-up and final disposition of the Democratic delegation to the next national convention are keeping their own counsel. Both have been mentioned often as presidential possibilities. Their friends think both Senator Clark and Governor Stark have turned their minds toward the stars that gleam high in the political heavens.

Fast cookedness and the trials and convictions to which it led, splintering the machine of the boss, T. J. Pendergast, has kindled ambitions on all sides. Republicans who helped in the fight would like to climb into power. Both Stark and Maurice M. Milligan, the able United States district attorney, who dealt the blows, would not object too strenuously to moving onto the national political stage in one capacity or another.

Republicans Hopeful
The Republicans say hopefully that with 40,000 votes knocked off the Democratic majorities in Kansas City, and helped along by discontent with New Deal policies, they can carry Missouri next year for their presidential candidate, elect a governor, a senator and a representative or so. This gets a quick argument from the Democrats.

On Republican candidates, casual conversation is heard about a long list of possibilities, but the most serious consideration goes to Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan.

Favorite son possibilities have virtually blotted out talk of other candidates among the Democrats. Aside from Clark and the outspoken willingness of Stark to appear on the ticket, Democratic interest in Missouri turns chiefly toward the possibility that President Roosevelt will try for a third term.

This is due largely to the fact that the workers for both of the Democratic candidates who are active in the field—Vice President Garner and Paul V. McNutt, the silver-haired Indiana—are trying to avoid fights with favorite sons. Their strategy is to ask for second choice votes.

President Roosevelt still is very strong in Missouri, despite the disaffection of some Democrats. To some degree, this has affected the strength of Senator Clark. Loyal New Dealers argued that he had not given the president his full measure of support in the recent congress.

The best Kaukauna players will join the Fox River Valley All-Stars, with negotiations now on for a game here at 5 o'clock Friday night against Appleton. New Holstein will show here Sunday against the All-Stars, with either Wakefield, Mich., or Oconto here on Labor day, Les Arndt, business manager, said yesterday.

Triple Play
The CYO infielders made the first triple play in years in the first game. After three girls had survived on errors Willis Ranquette at short took a hard hit ball and threw to home for the forceout. The catcher threw to third and the third baseman to second to force two more runners.

On the girls' team were Jean Panabaker, Alice Thompson, Marianne Van Abel, N. Steffen, Lucille Giordana, Grace Nagan, R. Reichel, Anna Mae Nyles and Virginia Van Dyke. Their only hits were made by Panabaker, Van Dyke and Thompson.

Those who saw action for the winners were Jack Geigle, Willis Ranquette, Jack Hatchell, Karl Giordana, Paul Koch, Don Bisek, Ray Vaneehoven, Herman Franz, Bob Eiting and George Steffen. Koch and Eiting each collected three hits.

High School Grid Squad Will Begin Practice Tuesday

Kaukauna Candidates Will Work Twice Daily Until School Starts

Kaukauna — Opening of football practices, announced for this morning, has been postponed until Tuesday morning. A letter from the state interscholastic association explained that the first practice may be held no sooner than the third Tuesday before the third Friday in September.

Coach Paul E. Little and Guy Krump, head basketball coach who will assist Little, will put the squad, estimated to run about 40 at the start, through two workouts a day until school starts next Tuesday. The practice sessions will be held on the library grounds.

Little is expected to lose no time assembling an eleven to begin defense of the 1938 Northeastern conference title. In other years two complete teams, a first and second eleven, have been usually discernible after the opening drill. After a round of exercise each morning the candidates will swing right into work on the fundamentals, and in addition take home a few plays each day to memorize.

Six Gretonas
Audacious — Perilous — Nerve-Racking

When these six lithe-limbed, steely-nerved aerialists step out on the almost invisible taut wire a sudden quiet falls upon the amphitheatre, the crowds seemingly sensing that something unusual in thrills is being proffered. Their balancing feats with from one to six people on the wire at one time remains the thriller of the century. So exacting, so perilous are the feats of the SIX GRETONAS, that they insist upon taking no extra chances with apparatus other than that carried intact by them.
The spectators follow every motion, every foot-step with bated breath — no exaggeration, just one mis-step and down would come the entire six to certain injury, perhaps death.
Here is a tremendously sensational attraction.
Note the three-high formation — here's perfect poise, perfect co-ordination of mind and body — an unparalleled equilibristic performance.

Six 18-Year-Old Daughters are Presented as North Shore Golf Club Holds First Assembly Ball

GOWNED in white and wearing white orchids, six 18-year-old daughters of North Shore Golf club members were presented to the other members at the club's first annual Assembly ball Saturday night. As each girl walked to the center of the room, a short poem was read by Morgan Davies, Oshkosh, a member of the committee who acted as master of ceremonies. After all six had been presented, their escorts stepped forward to dance with them, and after a brief turn about the room all of the men at the dance had their turns at dancing with the six guests of honor, cutting in on them during the rest of that dance. For the first dance the six girls and their partners were the only ones on the floor.

Aim to Overcome Governor's Veto

Legion, Other Patriotic Groups Seek Passage Of Armory Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison.—An attempt will be made in the state legislature this week to overcome Governor Heil's veto of the state armory board bill, it was learned today.

Speakers of the drive to cancel the governor's disapproval by a two-thirds vote in both houses are the American Legion, other patriotic groups, and representatives of the municipalities which would have gained armory construction under the program authorized in the armory bill.

The governor this week vetoed the measure, which proposed to set up a quasi-public board with the authority to issue bonds—a power denied the state government itself—for the construction of armories. The debt would have been amortized, according to plans, with the use of federal military allotments and rentals from the new buildings.

Armories in more than 30 Wisconsin cities were contemplated including Oshkosh, Green Bay, Clintonville, and Marinette in the northern section. Green Bay was scheduled for a three unit structure, which would have cost about $150,000.

Governor Heil vetoed the bill on the ground that the state would have a moral, if not a legal obligation, to guarantee the armory bonds, he said. His veto came despite the fact that the adjutant general's department, sponsors of the program estimated to cost more than $3,000,000, had circulated with the legislature with an explanation which included the statement that the executive had given the idea his approval.

It was learned also that the adjutant general's department had already been assured of a market for the armory bonds. The bill to authorize the armory program was warmly supported by patriotic groups and municipalities, and passed the state senate unanimously. In the assembly it was approved with only a handful of dissenting votes. Proponents were hopeful, therefore, that the measure could be passed over the governor's veto when it comes before the senate next week on the motion of Senator Murray of Milwaukee.

The new store contains 2,300 square feet of floor space as compared to 1,100 square feet in the old building. New departments have been added to the store and several more have been enlarged.

Practically the entire floor space in the building is given up to counters and merchandise with the exception of a small space in the rear of the store where an office has been constructed above the level of the floor. Foreign Policy Of U. S. Changed By New Alliance

Currents of Domestic Controversy Also Affect-ed, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. Washington.—Irrespective of the outcome of the European crisis, the foreign policy of the government of the United States as well as the currents of domestic controversy have been fundamentally affected by the new alliance between communism and fascism.

Perhaps the most outstanding consequence is the effect on American policy in the Pacific. Whatever fears there may have been that events were drawing the United States into a position of natural enmity and possibly ultimate war with Japan would appear to be groundless henceforth.

Japan's determination to cut loose from European power politics and make friends where she can, places her back where she was before some of her militarists became enamored of German intrigue. The same reasons which for decades past caused the Anglo-Japanese offensive and defensive alliance to be maintained are now operative again.

This alliance was terminated in 1921 only because the United States together with Japan and Great Britain and six other powers agreed on a treaty of mutual consultation on affairs that might arise in the Pacific. Today it is possible for the United States to hold forth the hand of sincere friendship to Japan and to ask in all earnestness that Japan return to the famous 9-power pact as a basis for a new set-up in the Far East. Clearly there is opportunity now to recognize Japan's sphere of influence in China and vicinity, but this does not mean that China's territorial integrity or Japan's economic opportunities therein need be in the slightest degree impaired.

What Japan needs is an economic partnership in the world. British and American capital can furnish the sinews of such a partnership while Japan can furnish the administrative aid that is needed to industrialize and develop Chinese resources. The United States, Great Britain, The Netherlands, France and, at times, Germany have heretofore acted in a sort of economic alliance in regard to China's resources and the interests of all concerned, including those of China, have prospered thereby.

Japan today is under the severest economic strain of her history in attempting to digest her far-flung operations in China. The time has come to adjust Japanese economy to new circumstances, and one of these might well be a termination of the war in China and the negotiation of a peace treaty in which economic factors will be taken fully into consideration so that the economic outlets sought by the original

Hitler's fateful act of expediency in surrendering his basic principle—anti-communism—for a temporary advantage in a relatively minor question inside Europe which could have been settled without such surrender has reacted in favor of American interests in the Far East and national unity within the United States.

Seymour Splits but Leads State League

Loses to New London, 2 to 1, and Defeats Green Bay Sox by 6 to 2 in 13 Innings; Clintonville Truckers Bow to Two Rivers in 10 Inning Struggle

SEYMOUR baseball entry in the Northern State league bounded back into first place in standings yesterday when it split a pair of games while Clintonville, tied previous to yesterday, was suffering a single loss at Two Rivers. Seymour dropped a pitchers' battle to New London in the afternoon at Seymour, 2 to 1. Each of the teams got three hits. In the evening, Seymour went over to Green Bay and came away with a 6 to 2 victory in 13 innings. Clintonville's defeat at Two Rivers was by a 4 to 3 score in 10 innings.

Thursday night the Seymour club will show at the West Spencer street field in Appleton with Two Rivers as the opponent. Seymour is composed largely of Appleton, Little Chute and Menasha players. It will be the first state league game here in years.

In the night game, one postponed from last Wednesday, Seymour outlasted the Green Bay Sox and scored four times in the thirteenth to take a 6 to 2 decision.

It was a hurling duel all the way with both Dick Weisgerber of Seymour and Joe Petcka of the Bays lasted the route. It was a great game for the fans, but was filled with much sloppy baseball, Green Bay posting nine errors and Seymour five. Only the ability of the hurlers to pull themselves out of holes kept the score down.

Seymour took the lead in the third when Jack Lamers singled and Eddie Zelinske doubled him home. The Bays tied it up in the fourth on singles by Elmer Jacobs and Harry Simons. Seymour again took the lead in the first of the twelfth when Zelinske was safe on Norm Clausman's error, went to second on Ham Powell's sacrifice and scored on Smiley Nicodem's sacrifice.

Again the Bays pulled the game out of the fire on Joe Petcka's lead-off double, a sacrifice out and an infield out.

But the Bays cracked for good in the first of the thirteenth. Bowers opened with a single and Pettys threw wild on successive bunts by Eggert and Kelly. Hitting the bases, Jacobs' error on Lamers' grounder sent Bowers home, Weisgerber singled in Eggert, and Nicodem doubled to score Kelly and Lamers.

Weisgerber whiffed 18 men in 13 innings to 15 by Petcka and allowed six walks, three intentional, to one by Petcka. The Bays collected seven hits to ten by Seymour.

Papermakers Win Over Falcon Nine

Kimberly Scores 7-6 Victory With Ninth-Inning Barrage
MEET AGAIN SUNDAY

Hit by Kobs, Wildenberg, Hofkins Decide Close Contest

BY RANDY HAASE
MENASHA—Kimberly Papermakers loosened a barrage of safety hits in the ninth inning to come from behind and nip the Menasha Falcons 7 to 6 in the first game of the series for the Fox Valley league championship before more than 400 people Sunday. The second game of the series will be played at Kimberly next Sunday afternoon.

The Falcons showed little respect for John Van Cuyk, youthful star of the Kimberly team, and blasted him for all of their runs and hits in the first seven innings. Omar held the Papermakers without a hit in the first three innings but tired as the game progressed.

The Falcons opened with three runs in the first inning before Van Cuyk settled down. S. Paulowski walked and stole second. Nadojny chok walked and both men advanced when J. Wildenberg made a wild throw attempting to catch Nadojny off first. Kolakowski popped out but B. Paulowski lined a hit down the right field line to score two runs. He went to second on a passed ball and scored when E. Paulowski singled to right. The latter was caught going into second on a relay by J. Wildenberg of Kobs' throw to the

The Falcons used only one hit in producing two runs in the third. Nadojny was safe on an error by Bauman. Kolakowski singled and went to second when a play was made to third in an attempt to get Nadojny. Nadojny scored and B. Paulowski was safe at first when the Kimberly infielder after erasing stealing and Buzanowski grounded out to end the frame.

Kimberly collected three hits and two runs in the fourth. Kobs opened with a single and moved to third on a double by Horn. U. Wildenberg hit one to first base and Kobs was safe at home when B. Paulowski dropped the ball. Wildenberg attempted to go to second but was trapped and hit down by B. Paulowski. E. Paulowski, Nadojny and Buzanowski with Horn holding third. He scored on a hit by Hofkins.

The Papermakers closed the gap to 5 to 4 in the fifth. LeMay walked and Peotter singled both advanced when Buzanowski errored on a hopper by Kobs and scored. In Horn's second hit after scoring runs, the Falcons got a single by H. Stutz off Van Cuyk in the fourth, a double in the fifth by B. Paulowski and their final two hits and run in the sixth.

Manager Artie Buzanowski opened the Menasha sixth with a double to right center. He moved to third when Stutz grounded out and scored on a single by S. Paulowski. The Papermakers got a single by LeMay in the sixth, but in the seventh Kobs opened with a single and moved around to third. He attempted to score on a grounder by U. Wildenberg but was out, E. Paulowski to B. Paulowski.

Van Cuyk Retires
Van Cuyk was taken out in the seventh inning for a pinch hitter and Artie Hofkins held the Falcons without a hit in the last two frames. Omar escaped trouble in the eighth but in the ninth Peotter opened with a bunt that B. Paulowski booted.

Kobs crashed a triple into deep left field to score Peotter and leave Kimberly trailing 6 to 5. He stayed on third while Bauman grounded out and Horn filed out to center field. U. Wildenberg fouled three or four pitches down the left field line and then poked a double into right center for the tying run.

Artie Hofkins sent the winning run home with another double to right on which Frank Kolakowski made a desperate effort for a shoe-string catch. J. Wildenberg singled but Vander Heiden lofted a fly to E. Paulowski for the final out. The Falcons went down in order in their half of the ninth.

Wightman Cup Remains In U. S. as Women Net Stars Defeat English

New York—(AP)—The Wightman cup was taken out for its annual airing over the weekend, and today was back to rest for a ninth straight year in custody of the Americans. Fraternal and American League Squads Will Meet Wednesday Night

An all-star softball battle under the West Spencer street lights will be staged by the Fraternal and American leagues Wednesday night, league officials have announced. The game will begin at 8 o'clock and there will be a small admission to defray cost of the light and perhaps enable the teams to have a league feed.

The Fraternal leaguers will show the following players: Catchers—Krause of the Y and Besch of the Moose.

Pitchers—Branchford of the Y, Kloes of the Foresters, Costigan of the Institute and Griesech of the Y. First base—Childs of the Foresters and Fanning of the Y.

Outfielders—LaMarr of the Y, brautigam of the Eagles, H. Rammer of the Y and Jerry Captain of the Y.

The Fraternal league manager will be Ray Risch of the Y and the coaches will be Stogebauer of the Foresters and Kugler of the Eagles.

The selections for the American league follow: Kimberly—Clark—Chip Mortell, Mac McClone, Phil Peotter and Robert Vander Velden.

Marathon Mill—Windy. Knoll, Czinkoski and Stearnski. Chairs—Sonny Filz.

Kimberly Officials To Meet Wood Room Team Under Lights

Kimberly—A softball game between Martin Van Heeswyk's village officials squad and Paul Gostas' Wood Room Knotters of the Kimberly mill will be played some night this week at the ball park. The two managers came to terms Saturday. The village team blossomed out about three weeks ago and thus far holds a win over the Murphy Corners squad.

Although the Wood Room team hasn't had any games this summer, Manager Gostas feels that it is just a matter of calling the boys out a little before game time to get in trim. Chief of Police John Ben-nardy has agreed to umpire the contest and to keep score. Besides being manager, Gostas will also be on the coaching line to hustle in the runs.

Tom Walton, Wood room superintendent, will be the starting pitcher for the Gostas gang. Other players in that lineup include Jack Penningberg, center field; Martin Kempen, second base; Otto Harke, first base; Harvey Judkins, short stop; George Jansen, third base; Curley DeLeeuw, catch; Peter Van Nuland, left field;

Leo Croner, right field; Bill Monte, utility and center field; Vander Zanden, relief catcher; George Philippsen, short right; Whitney Anderson, captain; Peter Van Tol, and Peter Van Boxel, utility players.

For the village squad Paul Lockschmidt, clerk, will be on first and also serve as relief pitcher. Dud Courchane, who pitched the team to victory two weeks ago, is on his vacation and in his absence Jhu Busch will probably start on the mound. Joseph Kuban, who got a ball in the finger in the last game, will play the bench. Henry Kildsonk may see action in center field while Manager Martin Van Heeswyk thinks he ought to play right field.

Henry Melcher will be scheduled in left field while Leonard Goffard will stop at short right. Harry Van Himbergen will hold third base. John Van Elsen, short stop; Jim Gaffney, catch; and Pete Verbeten, second base.

BOWLING SEASON PLANS
To be Meeting Topic
Kimberly—Plans for the 1939-40 bowling season will be mapped at a meeting of Carl Lemmer's bowling parlors Monday evening. The Kimberly league is expected to have 16 teams this season and will get underway next month. New pin racks will be included in the remodeling of the parlors.

Blood Says Pirates Will be "Mystery Team" of Pro Loop

TWO RIVERS—(AP)—Coach Johnny Blood of the Pittsburgh Pirates is assembling what he blandly says is the "mystery team" of the National Professional Football league.

"Give us an even break in the luck, and we'll cause a few headaches around the league," says Blood, who has just terminated 15 brilliant years in the professional whirl.

We are going to use a modified style of Notre Dame play, plus some wrinkles borrowed from the Green Bay Packers. Even at this early stage, I can promise we'll show a big improvement over the Pirates of last season."

The main cog in the new Pittsburgh machine will be Hugh McCullough, young six-foot, 190-pound backfield star from Oklahoma. He's being groomed to plug the gap left by Whizzer White.

In practice, the Oklahoman has been showing enough of what it takes to more than justify the high hopes Blood and Owner Art Rooney hold for him. Last season McCullough completed 69 of 109 aerials for a 63.3 per cent average—a better record than was chalked up by the sensational Davey O'Brien at Texas Christian.

Besides flipping the pigskin with deadly accuracy, McCullough also runs and plunges and is rated a good kicker and sturdy defensive player.

Blood also has a few cheers for Fullback Sam Francis, obtained from the Chicago Bears in a winter trade.

Five centers are in camp. From them Blood hopes to get a pair which can offset the weakness in the middle of the line that so retarded the 1938 aggregation.

Nelson Victorious Hurler; Milwaukee Drops Opener, 6 to 5

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Emmett Nelson outpitched Paul Dean to give the Milwaukee Brewers the second game of yesterday's doubleheader with Columbus, 6 to 1, after the Red Birds had broken a five-game Milwaukee winning streak by taking the opener, 6 to 5.

Columbus won the first game in the sixth inning when long Tom Winslett lifted one of Ed Carnett's pitches into the centerfield bleachers with Bobby Sturgeon on base.

The two runs gave Lefty Max Laine enough to work on when the Brewers scored five times in the sixth and seventh.

Wehrle, Billows Win Four-Ball Tournament

Detroit—(AP)—Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., golf pals during school days in Wisconsin, won the Meadowbrook invitational four-ball tournament yesterday in a sizzling finish to celebrate their links reunion.

The pair who separated four years ago, defeated Dick Chapman of Greenwich, N. Y., and Tom Sheehan of Detroit, one up, in the 18-hole finals. They had a best ball of 66, five under par.

Chapman and Sheehan defeated Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., and Chuck Kocsis of Detroit on the 20th green in the semi-finals, while Billows and Wehrle won from Willie Turner of Elmsford, N. Y., and Harvey Fruehauf of Detroit, 2 and 1.

Hawaii May Give America Olympic Swimming Honors

Brown-Skinned Islanders Take National Championship Home

DETROIT—(AP)—America's swimming leaders looked westward today for the talent with which to end Japan's supremacy in the water when the 1940 Olympic games are held at Helsinki, Finland.

Using returns of the senior men's national amateur athletic union outdoor championships as a basis, it seemed evident America will get garrison support in its Olympic quest from nine tiny, brown-skinned youths from far-off Hawaii.

Five of them from the island of Maui combined to score 32 points in the four-day meet which closed yesterday and take the national championship back to the Alexander House Community association, the first

Most Men Don't Want Flashy Wedding, But They Give in

BY DOROTHY DIX

To me a show wedding has always been one of the most inexplicable exhibitions of human vanity. Getting married is just as solemn and awful and personal an experience as dying. Why any one wants to like themselves up in glory, and invite a gaping and critical crowd to watch them go through the ordeal that is to change their whole lives and decide their future happiness or misery, is beyond explaining. As well might we put on our shrouds and summon our friends and acquaintances in to see us draw our last breaths.

Of course, I am aware that this is not the popular view to take of the subject, at least so far as women are concerned. Probably 99 per cent of the poor, badgered, frightened bridesmaids, who realize that they are the Forgotten Man at their own weddings and of no earthly use except as an excuse for the showoff, would agree with me. But most girls would rather be old maids than be married in decent privacy.

All that lives they have dreamed of marching to the altar in white satin and tulle and orange blossoms, accompanied by ushers and flower girls and ring-bearers and bridesmaids. So they are bound to have a display wedding, no matter whether or not they can afford it, no matter how much it wrecks themselves and their families; no matter how greedy they are going to need the money it costs with which to set up housekeeping.

As I have said, few men are keen on making a public display of themselves at their weddings, but most of them submit because they have been so intimidated and bewildered by all the fuss of the preparations that has been going on around them for weeks that they lost their nerve. And, anyway, they feel it is a woman's affair. But occasionally one rebels, and here is a letter from a hero who has the courage of his convictions.

He says: "We have been going steady for three years waiting for a break from the company for which I work so that we could marry."

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Rachel's case is a paradox in this modern world where jealousy and selfishness are breaking up so many marriages. Rachel's home is about to be wrecked because she is so generous and unselfish. Try to diagnose her behavior.

CASE O-131: Rachel P., aged 25, has been married for 2 years. "I need your help very much," she began our discussion, "for I seem to have no sense of value."

"If guests like anything in my home, I am likely to present the object to them as a gift. I have given away many of my wedding presents, just because somebody admired them."

"My husband gets angry about it, and says I am a child. He tells me I have no sense of value. Dr. Crane, what makes me act like this?"

DIAGNOSIS: Rachel's childhood clearly explains her present problem. She was brought up in a very strict home where she led a shy, unselfish existence.

Her parents did not believe in parties and dances. She had to hasten home from school each afternoon to help her mother with the housework.

Meanwhile, Rachel longed for the normal good times enjoyed by other girls of her age. She was hungry to be included in their secrets, but even her clothing marked her somewhat as an alien, for her parents were immigrants from Europe and insisted on dressing her according to their tastes instead of in keeping with modern American standards.

After high school graduation, Rachel wished to get a job, but her father didn't believe in having women employed outside of the

Teach Children the Ability To Uphold Their Decisions

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the weakest, most serious defects of wrong-doing is the plaintive, "He made me do it." Well, she coaxed me. If we could get children to understand that nobody under the sun can compel their wills and that they, and they only, control their actions, we could save them much grief.

One child is stronger than another in will and purpose, and he does his best to sway the weaker one, with success, usually. When the settlement for the error has to be made, and it cannot be avoided, the stronger one goes his way blithely. He gets out of it somehow. He has used the weaker one for his purpose and covered his own wrong-doing. All the victim can manage for himself is, "He made me do it."

We have to try to strengthen the soul of the helpless one. Begin by attending to his body, building up health. Guard his diet, his hours of sleep, play, recreation of all sorts. Watch to help him find the best possible associates so their influence can be used for his strengthening. Feed him well. Do what you can to stimulate his spiritual courage. Here he is weakest.

I think that every child, strong or weak, ought to know the story of Daniel by heart. Until Daniel's spirit is in him he will follow the crowd, lie down under pressure, sacrifice his principles, lose his soul, and die inside. The story of Daniel told and retold, ought to inspire the children to stand up for what they believe to be right for them and dare the consequences. Of that stuff martyrs are made. While few are called to make a major sacrifice all are called upon to choose between right and wrong, and often they must suffer for their choice as the martyrs did, but they also triumph and learn the glory of being men and women.

I don't want children to be driven into being heroes. That's as bad as the other extreme. What is needed is the teaching and example that inspire children and youth to make a choice between one side and another, and to stick by that decision once it has been made for what they believe to be truth and righteousness.

Such decisions do not have to be made so often that they are ordinary. Lions do not face us daily. Even in children's daily lives decisions between what is right and what is wrong are made. What is right for them, and what somebody else wants, or even what they want, to the contrary, must be made. "Mother said never to go riding alone."

to reason with her I felt she was taking advantage of the situation and was not to be trusted. "My sweetheart has been prohibited from seeing me and threatened with chastisement if she does. She says her parents are very stubborn and will never give in and it is best to avoid trouble by doing as they say. She won't elope because she says I will throw it up to her later, and because she fears her mother will become ill if she should leave home like that. What is your advice on this mix-up?"

Well, feeling as I do about show weddings, I am naturally on your side. I think that if the girl has any spunk in her she will just put on her hat and step to the parson's with you. Unless, indeed, she hankers for the white satin and orange blossoms and fuss and feathers just as much as her mother does.

But when you look at the matter dispassionately, doesn't it seem silly? Here you are a poor young couple about to start out in life with a mighty slim pocketbook, and you are thinking of spending on a grand parade that won't last twenty minutes, enough to furnish you a little home, or start you a nestegg in the bank. Can you think of any other way that you could get as little run for your money? And, believe me, son, the time will come when the rent falls due, and you have sickness and doctors' bills to pay and the first baby comes, when all that money that went into the white satin for which your wife never had any use again and for the orchestra and the champagne, and so on would come in mighty handy.

But brides will be brides, and I am afraid there is no help for you except to toe the line and be married the way the girl and her mother decide on.

Should Children Protect Philandering Father?

Dear Dorothy Dix—Our father, who is past 50 and who has a good position and is much respected, is having an affair with a married woman who is separated from her husband. He has been a good husband and father and we all love him dearly. Our mother is especially devoted to him and we love him too. Tell her about it, but we feel we should do something to stop him if we can. Is it our duty to go to Dad and tell him we know what is going on and how it hurts us, or should we go to this woman who in time will break up our home?

SISTERS.

Answer: You are wise not to tell your mother anything about it. Let her live in her fool's paradise as long as she can. She will find out soon enough that her husband is unfaithful to her. Very likely she suspects it already and is shutting her eyes to it as long as she can, thinking that you children are ignorant of the affair and not wanting to disillusion you about your father.

Don't humiliate yourselves by going to the woman and asking her to give up your father. She knows just as well as you do that she is breaking up his home and the wrong she is doing you and your mother, so there is no use in appealing to her pity and generosity. She is out for her own gain.

But you should talk to your father, and perhaps you can rouse in him some sense of his duty to his wife and children. It may be that his desire for your respect and affection will make him turn back from the road that is leading to his own destruction as well as yours.

The Girl With a Questionable Past

Dear Miss Dix—I am desperately in love with a girl of bad character. Sometimes I feel quite discouraged in thinking of her past and then again I feel that but I can give her seventy times seven. Would I feel save and secure if I married her?

PAUL.

Answer: Possibly she might reform, though I doubt it. But you could never feel secure about her if you married her. You are likely to need all of your powers of forgiveness with that sort of a wife.

Husbands vs. Wives Brings Up an Issue

Dear Mr. Culbertson: Another one of those husband-wife fights although in this case the two husbands were playing against the two wives. This was the very last hand of a thirty-six hand session, with the score extremely close, the wives being ahead some 200 points, and with a very desirable prize at stake.

The atmosphere was tense. The husbands were East-West and the wives North-South.

"East opened the bidding with a club. North-South bid spades and hearts, finally arriving at four hearts. At this point the writer, sitting West, pondered long and hard as to whether to pass and accept a nice vulnerable penalty, or double and have the opponents run to four spades, which he was quite sure they could make. It seemed the best strategy to pass, which I did. To my horror, however, partner then said 'five clubs!' I could have dropped a heavy weight on his head with keen satisfaction, but merely groaned as North briskly doubled. Result, four hearts, and the women gleefully won the pot of 400."

"My partner claimed the fault was all mine in not doubling four hearts, for then, if the girls had run to four spades, he would have doubled. Now, Mr. Culbertson, what would you have done, sitting East, when the four heart contract came up to you? Perhaps, in fairness to my partner I should say that I had given a half hearted raise in clubs at the second round, hoping thereby to get the girls to go on with their bidding of hearts. Now don't you think my strategy in passing four hearts was the best decision?—L. R., Michigan"

No, I regret to say that I do not agree with the "strategy" of passing four hearts. After all, East had opened the bidding and presumably had defensive values. He was marked void of hearts which, in turn, strongly indicated length in spades, a supposition bolstered by the fact that East had not bid diamonds. Surely, if he had a diamond club two-suiter, he would have mentioned the higher ranking minor suit at some stage. Thus, there should have been no doubt in West's mind as to East's ability to handle the spade suit if and when the opponents chose to run from a four heart double. It is true that on occasions arise in which the opportunity to double seems just "too good to be true," and when discretion, in the form of a meek "pass," is by far the best strategy. This, however, was not one of those occasions.

I notice with mixed feelings my correspondent's admission that he had given "one half hearted raise in clubs."

My Neighbor Says—

Lingerie must be tinted occasionally to preserve its dainty appearance. A faded blue garment will tint a delicate orchid with the aid of a pink dye, a pale yellow will shade into a delicate green if dipped in blue dye and a pink dye will change the yellow to a shell pink. Be sure to use small quantities of the dye for these pastel shades.

When a liquid diet is called for: clear soups, strained fruit juices, milk, sherbets, plain gelatin mixtures, egg nog. Serve them in small amounts every two hours.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

The wrong and right way to apply make-up and to dress the hair if your face is the inverted triangle type. Notice how soft and feminine you can appear!

Just as one begins to think there cannot be anything new in cosmetics, a surprise comes along. This time it is a revolutionary make-up theory, one which women have been inaudibly hankering after for some time.

A bright cosmetician has collaborated with both European and American fashion creators with the result that she has mixed new lipsticks, face powders, rouges and eye shadowings, to blend beautifully with the style color palette for autumn.

But she didn't stop there. It is her theory that each color has a "tone" for the specific skin colorings. One for the brunettes, another for the blondes, and still another for the medium. So her new clear red lipstick comes in three tones—it is up to you to determine what your current skin coloring is and buy the harmonizing make-up.

With so much thought put into the shades of make-up we should no longer be exposed to a visual shock of a blonde wearing lip and cheek coloring which were meant for the brunettes! And if you want to know which shades this cosmetic stylist feels will lead the color race early autumn, here they are: A glorious vivid red, a delicate warm blue-red and a heavenly golden red. Remember there is a "tone" of each for you!

Inverted Triangle
There are faces which do not fall easily into the main categories of oval, round, or square. They are the triangular faces—either decidedly broad across the forehead and narrow at chin line, or having a very narrow, low forehead and a strong jaw line. The first is called an "Inverted Triangle Type" and today we shall discuss what to do with it to bring out latent beauty.

Everything that can be, should be done to make it appear round or oval. You wear your rouge high on your cheek as shown in the "right" diagram above and train your brows to arch downward rather than upward.

By bringing your hair down softly about your face, and wearing a side part (on the side most becoming), you tend to widen your chin line and narrow your forehead. And do not accentuate your cupid's bow! Draw a small full line with your lipstick and choose its shade carefully.

The softer shades will draw less attention to your narrow pointed chin, than the more vivid shade.

Perce Westmore, the face artist of Hollywood, also suggests that you rouge the tip of your chin. This puts a shadow on it and makes the highlights fall across your low cheeks—which you want to broaden.

If you are too thin, send for my leaflet "Making Under-weights More Beautiful." It aids your facial beauty. Enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3c stamp. Write me care of this paper.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

In the extreme northern sections of the country, gardeners continually report indifferent success with sweet peas. The general advice given indicates that they should be sown late in the fall, the last part of October and early November. The idea is to give the sweet peas time enough to be pretty well started before freezing weather arrives.

Since so many gardeners report failure of their plants to thrive under this management, it is suggested that sowing in mid-September might produce better results. For the September sowing, select a piece of soil which will warm quickly in the spring, and spade it thoroughly. It is essential that the ground be loosened to a depth of not less than two feet. No manure should be worked into the soil when the peas are sown. At the bottom of this excavation make trenches seven-

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

YESTERDAY: Rebellion rises in Cecily when Olivia sends her 10 miles to telephone messengers. On her return she looks around Vickersport, and discovers that the library is inadequate. That night she makes plans.

Chapter Seven
Dream Come True

Cecily made lists and she wrote figures. The lists showed her assets and her needs. She had at least six hundred books to use in the circulating library. She had chairs and lounges and lamps with which to furnish the shop. She had fifty-five dollars and a few cents over.

She needed a sizeable sum to have her things packed in New York and sent to her. Hilda would take her own furniture from storage. She needed money for an initial payment on fresh stock and she needed three months' rent in advance—sixty-seven dollars and fifty-seven cents total for rent.

She could get by on two hundred dollars. She knit her brow and chewed on her pencil. How does one get two hundred dollars with which to start a business that will make one independent?

Aunt Olivia!
She would lend it to Cecily, certainly. Cecily turned down the lamp and snuggled under her covers, eager for the coming day.

Cecily's eyes grew rounder and rounder as she added up a lengthy column of figures. She shook her head disbelievingly and wet her pencil. Then she added them again, checked and re-checked them. They were correct. Astonishingly, overwhelmingly, joyously correct. She drew in her breath and looked out from over the card table she used as a desk to the window beyond, which looked out onto the street.

"Laura," she said to the quiet figure sitting in the wicker chair busy with knitting, "what do you think s-k-o-o-b spells?"

Laura Atwill counted her stitches and replied obligingly, "Sounds like a word I've never heard of. What does it mean?"

"It's books spelled backward," Cecily answered dreamily with her eyes still fastened on the letters in the window of her shop, "and it means independence, accomplishment and wealth beyond the dreams of avarice."

She might have lost herself in her pleasant reverie had her eyes not dropped again to the figures which recalled to her that she was a business woman.

She picked up the list. "As an associate, you will be interested to hear my first report. Be prepared to be impressed."

Laura put away her knitting and regarded the younger girl affectionately. "Let's hear the figures, Cecily. Made an impressive sound in her throat and read:

"Cash on hand at end of second week since opening, forty-three dollars and seventy-five cents. Laura said, 'Not really! How?'"

"We opened July third. Week of July third, we made six dollars on the rental of twenty-eight books at twenty-five cents each. We sold five new mysteries at two dollars each and one of Ted's prints at three dollars. We did better last week. Week of July tenth, we rented forty-three books with a profit of eighty-seven cents. We sold four prints at three each and four books, totaling five dollars. Cash on hand, I repeat, is forty-three dollars and seventy-five cents and we'll make more every week. Is that wealth beyond the dreams of avarice?"

But, Cecily, how much of it is profit?"

Olivia's Help
"Let me see. Expenditures: fifty cents for movies, forty-five cents for ice-cream and thirty-four cents for stamps. Total: one dollar and thirty-nine cents. That means there's forty-two dollars and thirty-four cents for you to take to the bank to deposit to Aunt Olivia's account. That will make forty-two dollars and thirty-four cents less that I owe her. You don't mind going to the bank for this new lot?"

"Of course, I don't mind," Laura said, getting up at once.

There was a smile hovering at the corner of Cecily's mouth and a twinkle in her eye when she said, "Oh, by the way, will you please take it to Mr. Hemingway himself? He's taken such an interest in the shop. I want him to know how we're getting on."

Laura didn't answer her but usually only in large houses is there a drawing-room.

Writing Paper For A Child
Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to give my twelve-year-old niece some writing paper for her birthday. She is an exquisitely dainty young person, and I would like this paper to be especially lovely. Will you please tell me how I should have it marked?

Answer: Have the paper stamped with her first name alone, and in a bright and cheerful color, such as light red, or rose pink, or turquoise blue, on very small paper—perhaps with a colored border to match the stamping. Smartest stamping is very small. If her name is long choose a monogram; size of a cherry-pit.

The Doorman's Hat
Dear Mrs. Post: The other day a friend of mine and I were discussing something, and while it isn't very important, will you please tell us what is right. Should the doorman of an apartment house remove his hat if a lady (a guest in the house) stops to talk to him?

Answer: No. He should touch his hat and keep it on, exactly as a soldier does.

The Postmark On The Wedding Announcements
Dear Mrs. Post: We are driving five hundred miles to be married in a particular church for sentimental reasons. Should we take the wedding announcements, which will have been addressed, stamped and sealed beforehand, with us to mail from the place where we are being married? Will it be better, or just as proper, if my parents mail them from home?

Answer: Mail them from home.

Cecily saw that there was a slight flush on her cheeks.

"Romance happens to everyone but me," she said, thinking of Laura and Mr. Hemingway, the forty-five-year-old president of the little bank. She didn't say it until Laura had gone and she was alone to realize all that had happened to her in the past three weeks.

She thought: I don't need romance, because I have all this and this is like a dream come true. So it had been.

The most dreamlike part of it had been Olivia's understanding and help. The morning after she had first seen the unclothed shop, Cecily had gone to her aunt and with simple dignity, put the situation before her. She didn't say any of the things she might have said about not wanting to be dependent on her aunt. She simply said that she had found something that she wanted to do and knew she could do. She had her figures and her facts and asked for the loan of two hundred dollars.

Olivia said at once that she would give her a check and that Cecily was to forget it. Cecily saw her aunt through new eyes that morning, recognized the tie that was between them. Olivia Watts had once gone to a man to borrow money for her musical training, and she never forgot how hard it had been to ask for money.

Olivia had not meant to take advantage of her niece, pressing her into service as she had. It was simply that Cecily had made it too easy for her. She thought about it, and Olivia had left. Cecily, who had a kind of beauty that was a full happiness that Olivia had never seen in her before. She decided that she really must do something social for her, introduce her to more young people, speak to Gloria about including her cousin on her parties.

Olivia basked in the pleasure of doing something kind.

Everyone had been kind. Hilda and the Fennys had arranged to have her chairs and lounges, lamps and bronzes, and her books packed and sent to her with maximum speed. Ted Pryor had offered her a collection of twenty-four photographic prints for twenty-five dollars for the lot. Mr. Calder had said he didn't mind if she painted Mexican scenes on the white walls. Lem Soderstrom, the village carpenter, had worked for three days building the book-cases that lined the small shop and painting them a glowing white. Mrs. Keefe, who ran the big inn, said that Cecily might put up her poster right over the inn desk.

New Friend
Even Joe Garinkie, who ran the local garage, turned out to help her. He supplied her with the names of all the summer people, trucked her things from the railroad station and helped her unpack, refusing payment because he said she was just one of the people who'd bring business to him.

It had taken her but five days to get the shop and an hour after that she had set the bronze bowl filled with yellow flowers in her window the opening morning, her first customer—old Mrs. Jonathan Brewster, who was rich enough to drive about in an ancient limousine—came in and promptly tucked four love-stories under her arm, asked Cecily a dozen questions about herself and departed. There were other customers, and then one day Laura Atwill came in.

It was one of the days when Cecily had to run down to the railroad station and Laura volunteered to keep the shop for her until she returned.

When she left that afternoon, Cecily had made a friend. A week later, Laura had moved into the shop with a small stock of knitting yarns and the understanding that the profits thereof were to be entirely hers in exchange for which she would keep the shop for a few hours a day.

It was an advantageous arrangement for both of them that had nothing of monetary value in it. Cecily needed a friend, someone who spoke her own language. And Laura Atwill, who at thirty-five had wandered about the world seeking a place for herself in her loneliness since the deaths of her husband and child six years before, found it in the shop in Vickersport.

Laura was slight and pretty. But you didn't see her prettiness until she came out of herself when she was interested in something she was talking about.

Cecily thought she must have been very interested in showing the shop to Donald Hemingway the day that he came in to see it. He had returned the following day and was obviously disappointed to find that Laura wasn't there. She was in the next time he came and Cecily found something else to do. That day Donald bought Ted's photograph of

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

SWEDEN'S REMAINS OF STONE AGE

This week I am going to tell some things about Sweden, one of the very few countries of Europe.

We cannot say Sweden is a small country, since it covers 173,000 square miles, and is 11 times as large as Switzerland. There is more area in Sweden than in Great Britain, Ireland and Holland together.

A rune stone at Rok, Sweden, 12 feet high.

If we think of population, however, Sweden ranks far below Great Britain. There are 2,500,000 people in London than in all of Sweden. Yet Sweden has 6,300,000 inhabitants.

Sweden is a long country, and we can gain some idea of its length by thinking of how far it would stretch if laid down on this continent. With the northern end at Toronto, the southern end would reach Jacksonville, Florida!

The northern part of Sweden is beyond the Arctic Circle. That section contains some thousands of Lapps and Finns, but not a great number of Swedes. It has sunshine all through the "night" at one season, and darkness all through the "day" at another season.

In Stockholm, the capital city, June days have as much as 15 and a half hours of sunshine, and as little as eight and a half hours of twilight and darkness.

Since Sweden is a northern country, we might expect it to be a cold place, but more than half of it is blessed with a fairly mild climate. This is due to warm winds which blow from the Gulf stream even in winter. In January, the average temperature at Stockholm is only five degrees below the freezing point.

Scientists say that people have lived in Sweden for about 10,000 years. In a number of places, remains of Stone Age life have been found. Among these are pictures of animals and people which were carved on rock probably 4,000 years ago.

A thousand years ago, the warlike Vikings had power over many parts of Europe. We are apt to think of them as being men from Norway and Denmark, but there were Swedish Vikings as well. The Swedish Vikings sailed and roved to the coast lands around the Baltic sea. They were in control over an important part of what is now known as Russia. The name "Russia" grew out of "Rous," a Finnish name for the Vikings.

The olden Vikings used an alphabet made up of letters called "runes." It seems likely that the letters were copied from Greek and Swm-BB Yrs EFN uaOdS61 -hizet Roman coins which reached the Northland long ago in the course of trade. A number of slabs of stones with writing in runes have been found in Sweden and elsewhere.

Names of 30 Players Drawn for Membership on 8 Teams

New London—A city-wide softball tournament such as New London has never seen before will be launched with two games at the city ball park at 7:30 this evening. Other games will follow Tuesday and Thursday evenings this week and next until a championship has been decided.

Eight teams with 80 players, a mix of factory workers, office employees, clerks, merchants, business men, teachers and executives, were drawn by officers of the New London Sports Association Saturday to provide balanced competition. Some changes and replacement of players is anticipated for the convenience of some.

The tournament is designed all for fun and whether the ultimate reward of players will be cash prizes for the winners or a general party for all will be decided by the participants.

Traveling Teams Booked for Labor Day Celebration

Game Between Ethiopians, House of David Scheduled for Sept. 3

New London—An outstanding triple entertainment feature for Sunday, Sept. 3, has been secured by the New London Sports association in cooperation with the New London Fire department for the annual Labor day homecoming here Sept. 2, 3 and 4, it was announced Friday.

Two of the biggest attractions in traveling baseball teams, the famous Miami Ethiopian clowns colored team and the equally reputable House of David team will be pitted against each other in an afternoon game to stage the most unique baseball game this city has seen. The grass-skirted clowns and the bearded white Davidites are great attractions wherever they appear and will stage their rival performance at the city ball park.

Additional bleachers will be arranged at the New London field to handle the homecoming crowd. This newly acquired attraction is just one feature that will combine with a homecoming show at the adjacent Hatten Recreation park and the new bridge dedication program on S. Home, Furnishings Lost In Blaze of Unknown Origin

New London—A farm house and all its furnishings were burned to the ground in the town of Lebanon about four miles northwest of New London by fire of unknown origin early Sunday morning. The loss, the value of which was not determined Sunday, was partly covered by insurance.

The farm, located on route 3, New London is owned jointly by Mrs. George Thomas of New London and Mrs. Charles Mury of Appleton. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lautenschlager and son Charles, were visiting at the nearby Harold Casey farm for the night and no one was in the house when it burned.

The blaze was discovered by Jerry Hurley as he passed the farm about 2 o'clock Sunday morning and at that time the flames were shooting through the top of the roof. Hurley alarmed the neighbors and a call was put in to the New London Fire department but when firemen arrived only a few feet of the walls remained. Efforts of farmers saved a nearby woodshed from which the roof was burned.

Wolf and Clyde Roepke, children's games will be conducted by Miss Jane Huebner, Tim Kellogg, Erwin Floetz and Alice Mae Berzill. Floyd Webb and Frank Huebner will make provision for refreshments.

I'm awfully good at fixing up romance for other people but a little weak on my own, Cecily thought, and went back to cataloguing a box of new books which had arrived that morning.
